NICHOLSON LAW VALID.

It is so Held by Judge McCrary at Indianapolis.

The First Test Case Decided in Favor of the Temperance People--Legislature Had Constitutional Power to Pass the Act.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 26.—The first decisions ever rendered under the Nicholson temperance law were given by Judge McCray, of the criminal court, yesterday in the cases of the state against Philip Zaph, who runs a restaurant in connection with his saloon, which he refused to close on Sunday, and Sam Dinnen, who refused to cease operating a musical instrument in his saloon. The cases were intended to be made test cases under the law, and arguments were presented to show that the law is unconstitutional, in that the law is indefinite and against common right. Judge McCray rendered his decision in both cases yesterday, holding that the law comes under the general power conferred upon the legislature to make and enforce police regulations and is constitutional. It is understood that the cases will be appealed to the supreme court.

OPINION IN FULL

The opinion of Judge McCray in full is as follows:

"Counsel for defendant assails the validity of the act of the general assembly approved March 11, 1895 (acts 1895, page 248), for many reasons, first of which reasons is that the title of the act does not embrace the subject matter as set out in sections 2 and 3 of said act—referring to licenses—that the title of the act is 'to regulate and restrict' the sale of intoxicating liquors and has no reference to the subject of 'licenses,' and is therefore repugnant to section 19, article 4, of the constitution of the state of Indiana, which provides that 'every act shall embrace but one subject and matters properly connected therewith; which subject shall be expressed in the title.' Counsel insists that the word 'license' should be inserted in the enacting clause, and should be embraced in the title before the subject of license can be a matter of legislation in the body of the act.

"In this view the court does not concur. The title of the act is 'An act to better regulate and restrict the sale of intoxicating liquors and the section of the constitution referred to declares that every act shall embrace but one subject and matters properly connected therewith. The question of license is certainly a matter properly connected with the regulation and restriction of the sale of intoxicating liquors, but if the section of the constitution in question did not contain the clause, 'and matters properly connected therewith,' but should read thus, 'every act shall embrace but one subject, which subject shall be expressed in the title,' then it is my opinion that the act in question would conform to and satisfy the constitutional requirement and that the act embraces but one subject, because in their relation to the liquor traffic—the subject of this legislation—the two words— restrict and license —are synonymous and interchangeable terms. Indeed, to restrict is to license, for if it were not for the law licensing the sale and restricting the right to sell to such persons only as are licensed and such only as comply with the law in obtaining a license, then every person could sell at will, but by establishing a license system the business is properly restricted to a few persons only who possess the necessary qualifications prescribed by law.

"In my judgment, the law bearing upon the subject of license as expressed in sections 2 and 3, is not repugnant to that clause of the constitution requiring the subject to be expressed in the title, when the title of the act is to regulate and restrict the sale of intoxicating liquors. It is also contended by the defendant that the proviso in section 2 has no application to a license held under the law of 1895. The liquor traffic is always a matter of legislative control and where a license is granted it is in the nature of a permit, and on the following day may be subject to a modification by the legislature. The legislature cannot remove it from police regulation. The traffic in intoxicating liquors is fraught with danger to society and the right of the state, after a license has once been granted, to impose additional restrictions upon the grantee during the continuance of such license is inherent in the state and cannot be parted with and all licenses are accepted and received by the applicants with this burden upon them, so, if the defendant in question is operating under a license issued prior to the enactment of the law of 1895 and the provisions in the law of 1895, imposing additional restrictions, having application in expressed terms to all persons holding license brings the defendant, under his old license, clearly within the pale of the new law and subjects him to all its provisions.

"It is insisted that as the defendant's license does not expire for some period of time in the future that, therefore, if he desires to carry on some other business that he cannot comply with the provision of section 2, requiring him to set out in his application for a license the kind of business which he intends or expects to carry on in connection with his saloon, as his license has not yet expired and he could not obtain a new license until his present license expires. Upon this point the court is of the opinion that it is not pertinent to this case; that the charge in this indictment is, that he kept and operated a certain musical instrument, commonly called a music box. It will be observed that the question of defendant's making music and keeping musical instruments is in the body of section 2 and not in the proviso and therefore absolutely prohibited and as the court considers it, it was the intention of the legislature to prevent musical instruments from being kept in saloons and also to prohibit music from being given in such places as one of the restrictions upon the business, and that the position of the defendant that he is unable to petition the board for the privilege of keeping such instruments is not tenable, because if his petition was duly filed and presented to the board of commissioners it would have no authority to grant him the right to music, as the same is prohibited by section 2. It is therefore unnecessary to negative the proposition in the indictment that he kept such instruments without first having obtained a license to do so.

"Counsel also contends that as the law defines the kind of a room in which lawful sales are to be made and that as musical instruments and music are prohibited therein that if he kept a room with such instruments or music then he would be liable for unlawful selling, and should be indicted for making unlawful sales because he is selling in an unlawful room or place. The court does not concur in this view for the reason that the keeping of the instruments or the music is in no way under the law connected with the selling and that the defendant keeping such instruments or making such music might be liable under the law prohibiting the same, even though he never made a sale at all, and it would not be necessary for the state to make a case of selling in order to enforce the statute prohibiting the custody and use of musical instruments in his place of business.

"It is insisted that Section 2 of the statute is repugnant to the constitution because it invades the right of a citizen to conduct a business that is not a subject of police regulation when carried on in connection with a saloon. It is contended that every man may carry on the business of keeping grocery, or, indeed, any kind of merchandise without being a subject of police regulation and that the law will not prohibit a man from keeping his store containing such merchandise open at all hours, both day and night, and to deny the saloon keepor who has such legitimate business the same right as his rival to thus keep his legitimate business open at all hours is a law conferring special privileges upon his rival and denying him that equal protection of the law, which the constitution guarantees. This has been argued with much force, but the court cannot concur in the view thus expressed by defendant's counsel. The whole subject of this legislation is the liquor traffic and not such other business as the defendant may see fit to carry on therewith; indeed, the sale of liquors, so far as this law is concerned, is the principal business and such other business is a mere incident to such business of selling liquors and all legislation bearing upon the principal business must likewise operate upon the incident. It makes no difference which is the greater—the sale of liquors or such other business connected therewith—the object of this legislation is to deal with the traffic in liquors and to restrict it within such limits as to keep it constantly within the power of police regulation that it may be the least harmful to society, and to hold that the exercise of this important function of government may be thwarted by attaching thereto some other business, not subject to police regulation, and thereby draw the traffic of intoxicating liquors from under police control would be to divest the state of one of its chief attributes of government to which this court cannot assent.

"The motion to quash is overruled and the defendant is required to plead to the indictment."

STORMS IN IOWA.

Heaviest Rainfall Since the Year 1881.

Corn Fields Ruined, Bridges and Fences Washed Out and Other Losses Caused.

MARSHALLTOWN, Iowa, July 26.—The heaviest rain and hail storm since 1881 visited this section last night. Two and a quarter inches of rain and considerable hail fell here. The storm was much more severe both north and south. The strip of country in the northwestern part of the county was badly damaged by hail and washouts. A number of corn fields were ruined and bridges and fences washed out. The corn fields in the southeast part of the county were also badly damaged by hail which were as large as walnuts in some localities. All the glass in many of the buildings was shattered.

BEAM HANGED

For the Murder of His Married Stepdaughter.

WASHINGTON, July 26—Joseph A. Beam was hanged at the United States jail here at 11 o'clock this morning for the murder of his stepdaughter, Mrs. Annie Leavy, last December. Beam had confessed his guilt and expressed repentance. Beam and his wife had separated and when he called to see her December 22, 1894, his stepdaughter ordered him away. He shot her dead and then surrendered himself.

Dr. George Slater has two patients at the free dispensary taking treatment for the liquor habit.

BLOODY MURDER.

A Horrible Crime Committed Near Minneapolis.

Pretty Maggie Craigie Has the Top of Her Head Blown Off With a Shotgun.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 26.—A strange and bloody murder was committed last night on the farm of Ernest Lange, seventeen miles west of this city. The body of little Maggie Craigie, the fourteen-year-old daughter of Captain Charles Craigie, of the Minneapolis fire department, was found with the top of the head blown off by a charge from a shot gun. Futile efforts had been made to remove the traces of blood in the up stairs room where the murder was committed and along the stairs where the body had been dragged down. Lang's shotgun was found with one recently fired shell in it. Mrs. Lange claimed to have been away from the house at the time and later her eight-year-old son, Freddie, confessed that he had killed the girl by accident.

SENSATIONAL SUIT.

Adlaide Colgate Seeks Separation From Her Husband.

He Leaves Her and Takes Up His Abode With a Woman Named Bassett.

TRENTON, N. J., July 26.—Mrs. Adlaide Colgate today began proceedings for divorce from her husband, Melancthon S. Colgate, a member of the New York bank and brokerage firm of Nesslage, Colgate & Co. Mrs. Colgate lives at Bloomfield, N. J. In her petition Mrs. Colgate alleges that for the past year her husband has been away from home much of the time, but for the past six months he has been living in New York at No. 9 Christopher street, with a woman named Delia Bassett, as man and wife, being known as Mr. and Mrs. Bassett. Mrs. Colgate wants a divorce and an allowance for the support of herself and her five-year-old child, and the custody of the latter. The firm of which Mr. Colgate is a member dissolved yesterday because, it is alleged, of the threatened divorce proceedings.

AN UNUSUAL INCIDENT.

A Man Requests That His Funeral Sermon Precede His Death.

ATLANTA, Ind., July 26.—J. H. Robbins, of Millersburg, died before the funeral escort had returned from the burial of his own wife, who died the day before. Mr. Robbins had repeatedly expressed his determination to die as soon as his wife should have passed away, and he requested that his funeral should be preached at the same time with that of his wife. His wishes, were gratified, and the unusual incident of a man listening to his own funeral discourse was witnessed by those present. The double funeral sermon was delivered by the Rev. S. H. Stokes, of the Atlanta M. E church. Mr. and Mrs. Robbins' remains were laid beside those of their only daughter, who died five years ago, and they leave no descendants. Their little house, built principally by Mr. Robbins, who had a broken back, and who had not walked for thirty years, is something of a curiosity.

CHAUNCEY DEPEW

Is Interviewed at London by the Westminster Gazette.

LONDON, July 26.—The Westminster Gazette today publishes a long interview with Chauncey Depew, who according to the Westminster Gazette, is considerably talked of as the next republican candidate for the presidency of the United States. In this interview Mr. Depew discusses at length the British elections, the American opinion of home rule and the Monroe doctrine, taking the same ground on all three subjects as he did in the interview with the Associated Press representative when he landed at Southampton on the steamship Paris on July 18 Regarding bimetallism, Mr. Depew is quoted as saying that he believes the majority of the Marquis of Salisbury's cabinet is in sympathy on this subject with the views of Rt. Hon. A. J. Balfour, the first lord of the treasury.

AMERICAN FRUIT

Finds a Very Poor Market in London.

Fine Plums, Pears and Peaches Knocked Down to the Lowest Bidder.

LONDON, July 26—Sixteen hundred cases of California fruit, which arrived at Southampton from New York by the steamship St. Louis at 8:15 yesterday morning, were sold at Covent Garden today, fetching prices which were one-half below those of last week's. The plums averaged 7s. 6d. per case, the peaches, 8s., and the pears, 11s. 7d. There was a large crowd of buyers present in the market. The auctioneer first sold thirty-one cases of plums packed by the Joe Anderson Fruit company, of San Jose, and he was obliged to use a great deal of labor to sell them at 7s. 6d. a case. He explained to the crowd that the last lot of fruit came over in the refrigerator compartments of the steamship, and as a consequence they turned dark when exposed to the air. The present goods, he assured the prospective buyers, were in better shape. The second lot of plums, shipped by Stroper, of San Jose, sold at 8s. 9d. per case. The Crawford peaches, packed by the National Fruit company, of Riverside, sold recently at 8s, 9d. Here the sale languished, but Mr. White, the auctioneer, urged the crowd to buy, saying that the last lot of fruit was picked too soon, and that the present lot was of a better size. Under this stimulus, Mr. White sold ten cases of pears packed by Sol. Runyon, of Courtland, which fetched 9s per case. Then he auctioned off an extra lot of pears picked by H. Mayers, of Riverside. They brought 13s per case. The buyer informed a reporter of the Associated press that the fruit was of a better quality than the last consignment. Still they did not think that more money can be made with the American fruit than fresh fruit. The best lot sold was fifty cases of pears packed by the National Fruit company, which fetched 14s per case.

PAT'S PREDICAMENT.

Janitor of the Holmes "Castle" is Between Two Fires.

Damaging Evidence Against Him is Unearthed--New Developments in the Career of the Murder Monstrosity.

CHICAGO, July 26—Pat Quinlan, the janitor in the Holmes "Castle," is in serious danger. He carried the thirty-seven keys which opened the various doors, secret and otherwise, in the chambers of Holmes' castle. He was the factotum of Holmes. Quinlan is between two fires. If Holmes confesses, as it is expected he will, he may implicate Quinlan, and if Quinlan confesses he must apparently implicate himself.

Damaging evidence against Quinlan has accumulated more rapidly in the past twenty-four hours than that against Holmes. Detective Norton was informed that early in the career of Quinlan with Holmes the former kept at the castle a girl whose first name was Lizzie. She had a sister working in the restaurant connected with the castle. This Lizzie gave birth to a child which Holmes took care of. What became of it is unknown save to Holmes and Quinlan. The report spread about Sixty-third street that Quinlan was about to marry the girl. Suddenly his wife, who had not been living at the castle, appeared on the scene. Lizzie was hurried out of the city and it is said she is now in Omaha. An effort will be made to find her.

To Quinlin it appears were sent the orders from Philadelphia to destroy all of Holmes' papers, clothing and other articles which might aid the detectives in tracing his career. How faithfully Quinlan did this is to be seen in the little of Holmes' effects to be found in the castle.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., July 26.—Emiline Cigrande, reported a victim of Holmes, is well known here. She went to Dwight, Ill., in 1891, where she was stenographer. Later friends were informed by her that she was with the A B C Copying company, of Sixty-third street, Chicago, and was soon to marry the manager, Robert E. Phelps. This marriage, according to cards received here, took place in December, 1892. Since then Lafayette friends have had no trace of her.

HAMILTON, Ont., July 26.—Mr. McLean, one of the owners of the St. Nicholas, is almost positive that Holmes, Hatch and a woman, possibly Miss Williams, stayed at his hotel last September. He says that an elderly man, accompanied by a young woman, whom he represented to be his wife, arrived on the 27th of September and shortly afterward a man joined them, who said he was from Chicago.

After staying a few days at the hotel, the elderly man left with his wife to board in the east end, and Holmes left for Chicago. The old man left the city, but the detectives can find no trace of the young woman, and it is thought she may have been murdered here.

ST. LOUIS DEMOCRATS.

Central Committee Splits on the Question of Primaries.

ST. LOUIS, July 26—The democratic city central committee has split on the question of primaries for the selection of delegates to the state silver convention, to be held at Pertle Springs on August 8. Ten of the twenty-eight committeemen refuse to participate in the primaries. A long declaration, signed by the ten mentioned, has been presented, protesting against the action of the democratic central committee of St. Louis in calling primaries for the selection of delegates to the Pertle Springs convention, for the reason that that convention is not called as a democratic convention, but for the sole and avowed purpose of promoting the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, consequently there will be no delegations in the ten wards represented by these dissenters, unless the free silverites place them in the field.

Seizure of Logwood Boats.

MOBILE Ala., July 26.—A newspaper from Belize, British Honduras, brings the first news of the seizure, on Bacalar Lagoon, Hondur river, the dividing line between Honduras and Yucatan, of two logwood boats and a quantity of logwood belonging to British subjects. The seizure was made by a Mexican war vessel for alleged violation of police regulations. In leaving those waters on July 15 the war vessel passed between two islands belonging to Great Britain, and therefore passed through British territorial waters. The question raised is whether this act can be justified. It will be brought to the attention of the home government.

Mexico's Indians.

SERMOSSILO, Mexico, July 26—The Seris Indians, the cannibalistic tribe that occupies Tiburon island, are again becoming troublesome and the ranchmen along the coast in the state of Sonora, near the island, fear an attack. A party of the Indians made an attack on the ranch of Pacsual Encinas a few days ago, but were driven off by the ranch employes. The ranchmen have appealed to the authorities for protection.

Millionaire Murderer.

ST. LOUIS, July 26.—Arthur Deustrow, the millionaire murderer, has been taken to Union for trial. "Good bye, boys," he yelled to the guards, "I'll never come back here again."

Will Fight.

GALVESTON, Texas, July 26.—Herman Bernau, of this city, has accepted the challenge of Left Fielder Elsey, of the Fort Worth club, for a fight, to occur in this city at a time to be agreed upon later. Bernau says he will fight Elsey for from $500 to $1,000 a side.

NEW FEATURE

In the Strike of the Indiana Bituminous Miners

Which is Likely to Disorganize the State Federation--The Action of Governor Matthews.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., July 26.—A new feature in the strike of the Indiana bituminous miners has developed, which is likely to disorganize the State Federation of United Mine Workers. Two of the Sullivan county locals have expected President Purcell to call out the Clinton miners and are working under a special agreement and declare a general strike throughout the state. They notified the president that in the event of his refusal they would demand his resignation, together with that of Secretary Kennedy. The president refused and there is much speculation as to what the outcome will be.

It was learned late last night that the action of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad in forcing the Clinton Lock operators to reduce the price of mining by failure to furnish cars had been reported to Governor Matthews, and that the executive had given the miners assurance that he would take official action in the matter. The Chicago and Eastern Illinois is accused of having taken the course complained of for the purpose of forcing the miners to accept the fifty-one cent scale.

MARQUETTE, Mich., July 26.—The ore trimmers of this city are sending delegations to the striking miners at Isphemingand Negaunee to persuade them to allow the steam shovels to work and thus get out the ore now on stock pile, but so far without success. By refusing to allow ore already mined to be shipped, the strikers are simply letting that much ore from other ranges displace ore from the Marquette, and thus reducing the possible amount of employment for themselves in the future. Meanwhile, the strikers not only makes idle the miners themselves, but also the trainmen, dockmen and trimmers, who handle the ore on its way to market. The harbor here is practically deserted, save by a few vessels bringing in coal and taking out lumber.

HORSE MEAT.

Railroads Making Special Rates for Its Transportation.

PORTLAND, Ore, July 26—A special rate on canned and pickled meat, as a result of the horse meat industry established in this city has been made to eastern points by the railroads.

The Oregon railroad, in connection with the Union Pacific system, Northern railway and the North Pacific has issued an amendment to the east bound North Pacific coast tariff for this purpose The new tariff applies equally to all eastern points. The rate established is $1 per 100 pounds in car loads of 24,000 pounds minimum weight. A radical reduction of nearly 100 per cent. is made. The present rate on canned meats is $1 85 to Chicago and $2 10 to New York. The new rate is effective August 2

RISE IN THE RIVER

Washes Away a Bridge Over the Arkansas River.

SYRACUSE, Kan., July 26—The bridge across the Arkansas river here was washed away by a sudden rise in the river last night. The two shore sections were carried down by the current, leaving the middle span in tact. There were seven men on the middle span and they were threatened with drowning. They managed to build a raft, however, and were rescued after a dangerous sail down the swiftly running current. It is feared considerable damage has been done to crops on the low lands.

JAMES GORDON BENNETT

Will Soon Marry One of the Richest Women in Paris.

NEW YORK, July 26—A dispatch from Berlin says that Paris is looking forward to the marriage of James Gordon Bennett, proprietor of the Herald, and Mrs. Annenkow with the greatest interest. Mrs. Annenkow is the divorced wife of General Annenkow, a Russian, who built the Trans-Caspian railroad. She is said to be one of the richest women in Paris.

Result of a Feud.

BROOKSVILLE, Fla, July 26—News has just reached here of the killing Tuesday of Dan and Crockett Whidden, brothers, at a cedar camp. It is supposed that their death was the result of a feud that had been raging for years among the Whiddens, Whithurst and Stevensons, three families, who have been inter-married, and who are well known all along the gulf coast. The men who were killed were overseeing some work in camp, and slept in rude shelters of palmettos. The murderers crept up during the night and fired on the sleeping men, killing them instantly. The murderers escaped.

Disappointed Lover.

BINGHAMPTON, N. Y., July 26.—Five minutes after an interview with his intended bride Volney Barrett, a prominent Binghampton merchant, lay dying from a bullet wound inflicted by his own hand. Some months ago he became engaged to Miss Georgia Earl, a school teacher of this city. Recently an artist returned from Italy and called on Miss Earl and was seen driving with her. This is supposed to have roused Barrett's jealousy.

DR. HARROD HURT.

His Horse Runs Away on the New Haven Road.

Became Frightened at a Hand Car--Big Fire at Briceton--Explosion at Rome City.

While driving to New Haven this morning to see a patient, Dr. Harrod had an experience which was not at all pleasant and he was painfully injured in the bargain. Near the Wabash railroad crossing his horse became frightened at a hand car and began kicking. The animal struck Dr. Harrod on the right hand, breaking his third finger and fracturing some of the small bones in the palm of his hand. The animal acted in a particularly vicious manner and after knocking off the dash board started to run. The doctor, however, was lucky enough to get out of the vehicle by jumping. The animal ran on until it nearly reached New Haven, when it was caught by a man by the name of McIntosh. At the same time Deputy Sheriff Ryan came by on his bicycle and a few moments later McIntosh came up with the horse and buggy, neither of which had been injured. While Mr. McIntosh brought in the wheel Deputy Ryan drove Dr. Harrod to this city, where his injuries were attended to.

A SERIOUS LOSS.

This morning at Briceton, a small town east of here on the Nickel Plate, a sawmill owned by M. Dodge burned to the ground, throwing fifteen men out of employment. There was no insurance.

BROKE HER ARM

This morning Mrs. Houck, of No. 154 DeWald street, fell and broke her arm.

BURNED OUT.

For the past week the families of Joseph Fox and David Tegtmeyer have been occupying the South Bluff cottage at Rome City. Yesterday morning a gasoline stove exploded in the kitchen and before anything could be done, half the cottage was in flames, and the occupants barely had time to escape with their lives. Neighboring cottagers rushed to their assistance and by running with pails of water at last succeeded in extinguishing the fire, after half the cottage was consumed. The explosion was caused by escaping gas which ignited when the cook attempted to light it. With the exception of a few slight burns she was otherwise uninjured. Everything of value in the house was burned and the wardrobe of the party was completely destroyed, in fact, it was necessary to procure sufficient clothing from neighbors before the trip home could be made. Joseph Fox, jr., is minus two good suits. The unfortunates returned to Fort Wayne last evening.

WINONA ASSEMBLY.

Has Been an Interesting Week at Eagle Lake.

EAGLE LAKE, Ind., July 25.

The Winona assembly is sailing under flying colors. This has been a most interesting week. On Monday evening Dr. Leeper, of Fort Wayne, delivered an illustrated lecture, "Glimpses of the World in the Times of Christ." On Tuesday evening Dr. Charles Little lectured on "What a Man Owes to His Town," and on Wednesday evening Dr. Eaton delivered his celebrated lecture, "The World's Tomorrow." Interesting devotional services have been held each day, and from morning until night hill and vale have alike reverberated with the sweetest strains of music from the outdoor concerts given by Professor Miles' band of trained musicians.

The park presents a lovely appearance. Its flowers look refreshed and send forth their sweetest perfumes, the forests have donned a new garb and all nature makes merry over the happy surroundings. Persons wishing to combine rest, pleasure and recreation can surely have every desire fully gratified by visiting Winona park, one of the most charmingly beautiful spots in all the country. A number of Fort Wayne people occupy cottages here and others come and go by every train. Of the cottagers your correspondent has secured the names of Col. D. N. Foster and family, Mrs. A. J. Laubach and family, E. F. Yarnelle and family, R. B. Glenn and family, Engineer Barten and family, Willard Griswold and family, Prof. William Miles and family.

Mills, for many years the faithful foreman of the tool department in the Pittsburg shops. After a week's trip and a sojourn at Rome City the bridal party will take up their residence on Bass street.

At five minutes before 9 o'clock this morning J. M. Robinson filed a petition in the superior court asking that his client, Mary Haiber, be given a divorce from her husband, Geo. W. Haiber, and five minutes after 9 o'clock Judge Dawson granted the plaintiff a divorce, gave her the custody of the children and awarded her alimony in the sum of $1,200.

The parties were married on May 17, 1881, and lived together until July 3, 1895, when they separated, because, as the plaintiff says, the defendant was guilty of cruel and inhuman treatment. The defendant was represented to have property worth $5,000.

Elizabeth L. Noble has brought suit in the superior court by her attorneys, Leonard Bros., asking for a divorce from William H. Noble. Cruel and inhuman treatment, desertion and failure to provide are the causes alleged in the petition.

The defendant is a farmer, residing in Jefferson township, worth $5,000, and the plaintiff asks for alimony in the sum of $1,500.

John C. McMaken yesterday filed suit against Adolph Stolti et al., for damages amounting to $300. The case will be tried in the circuit court. The plaintiff is represented by Ninde & Sons.

Coroner Kitheart, of Whitley county, has returned a verdict that Samuel Kuntz's death was due to accidental drowning in Blue Lake.

MANY WOMEN SUFFER

FROM LACK OF INFORMATION.

Doctors Are Too Reserved. A Woman Should Be Dealt With Openly.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Women are often allowed by their physicians to suffer much from lack of information and anxiety.

Many medical men are vain, and it is a struggle for them to acknowledge that they do not understand a case. Women do not investigate; they have faith in their doctor, and often wreck their lives through this unfortunate confidence.

In the treatment of female diseases men work from theory; and it is not to be expected that they can treat as intelligently those complaints from which they have never suffered, as a woman can who has made the organism and diseases of her sex a life study.

Women afflicted with female diseases are wise in communicating promptly with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Their distressed condition is due to womb trouble, and their symptoms tell the story.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the one remedy that removes the cause, and restores health, courage, and happiness. The druggists sell more of it than all other female medicines. Why?

The following short letter speaks for itself. Mrs. Parker is a very young wife; only twenty-one years old. She was suffering untold misery when she wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice. See the result.

Can evidence be stronger than this? "I deem it my duty to announce the fact to all my fellow-sufferers of all female complaints that your Vegetable Compound has entirely cured me of all the pains and suffering I was enduring when I wrote you last May. I followed your advice to the letter, and the result is wonderful." — MRS. CHAS. PARKER, Little Falls, Minn. Any druggist has it.

Is a Criminal Monster.

The career of H. H. Holmes, now coming to light by the telegrams given in THE SENTINEL each day concerning his crimes, is one of the most remarkable records of criminal depravity that imagination could conceive. A man of good address, educated at Ann Arbor, he seems to have deliberately entered upon a life of unscrupulous and atrocious crime. Not yet thirty years of age, he is known to be guilty of almost, if not quite, all the crimes known to humanity, from theft to deliberate murder.

His criminal career is thus given by the Kansas City Star: "His first attempt to defraud insurance companies was by the use of unindentified bodies, representing them to be the bodies of persons who were heavily insured. In two instances he secured bodies from medical colleges and had them identified as his own while he remained in hiding until his assistants had collected the amount of the policies he had previously taken out on his own life. Successful in these frauds, his next step was to take out policies on the lives of others and then murder them and collect the insurance. It is believed that he has committed at least eight murders in that way. Two girls disappeared mysteriously from Chicago two years ago and it now appears that Holmes secured about $80,000 on their lives. A family named Pietzel joined him in his schemes. A heavy insurance was taken on the life of the father of the family with the understanding that a corpse should be secured and represented to be Pietzel's. The partly burned remains of a body was duly procured and indentified as Pietzel's by Holmes and two of the children. It was indeed Pietzel, he having been murdered by Holmes. The unsuspecting mother afterwards gave over to Holmes three of her children, two girls and a boy. These were the two girls whose bodies were found horribly mutilated and buried in the cellar of a house that Holmes had occupied in Toronto. The boy has not been found. Search is now being made in Holmes' Chicago residence and office for further clues. He is under arrest at Philadelphia, where he murdered the elder Pietzel. He talks coolly of the crime and claims that he can prove an alibi. His former housekeeper tells of mysterious movements, evidently arranged to sustain an alibi, while prosecuting his villainies.

It seems incredible that a human being could commit the crimes charged to this man and from motives so meanly trivial and mercenary. It indicates a want of feeling that argues against his sanity—yet he appears perfectly sane. His wife and her parents, who seem not to have been aware of his evil doings, credit him with uniform kindness to them while carrying on these heartless butcheries. We must class him as a monstrosity or lose all faith in humanity. He seems to have been such a creature as Stevenson pictured in his story of Dr. Jekyll and Henry Hyde. The latest developments go to show that his Chicago residence was arranged with secret traps and openings for the purpose of committing murder and secreting the bodies.

The Disappearing Red Men.

The primitive inhabitants and the original owners of the territory that now constitutes this union of states, the Indians, happy in the freedom of their untutored condition, have been robbed or cheated out of the broad forests which were once theirs by right of original occupancy; their numbers reduced from millions to thousands by the destructive arts of war of the white men who came from the old world; their tribes driven by the superior skill of the invaders from the Atlantic coast, step by step and year by year, across the continent, until now the few thousands of them that are left in the territory allotted to them in the far west are the last remnants of a race which is rapidly, very rapidly, disappearing forever, and soon by the majestic rivers and in the depths of the solitary woods the feeble sons of the bow and arrow will be seen no more.

Right or wrong, such has been and such is the history of the red man. Justly or unjustly, he has been deprived of the ownership of the new world. The Saxon came. His conquering foot trod the vast domain from shore to shore. The weaker race withered from his presence. They sunk and failed. The prairies, the forests, and the hunting grounds of their ancestors are theirs no more. The cypress and the hemlock are singing their requiem. And now, because, it is said, they are violating the game laws of a western state, the nation's regular army is called out to shoot them down. Such are civilization's methods. Are they right? Have not the Indians suffered sufficiently at the hands of the white man? Must they be exterminated, be made to disappear from the earth forever, because they stand in the way of civilization's march? It seems so, and, in the logic of events, the last chapter in the history of the red men of North America will soon be written. What that history would have been had the Caucasian, with his whisky, never come among them, it is hard to tell. It is certain, however, that had the discoverers' vessels never crossed the ocean from the old world to the new the Indians today would have been as numerous in North America as the whites now are and they would have been happy in their untutored way of living.

Whenever the two races meet, the Indians will still get the worst of it, as inevitably as at every previous stage of history, and when pushed beyond endurance they will fight.

The Bannocks have been reasonably quiet since 1878, when General Miles was obliged to discipline them. They were given a reservation in Wyoming, where there was still game to hunt, and they have generally kept to themselves. But game continues to grow scarce, and white settlers, hunters and cattle rangers continue to encroach upon the hunting grounds. Whether the Indians have been off their reservation or whether the whites have been on it, it is evident that the present collision is one of those that ought not to occur, but that nevertheless do and will occur, and always with the same results.

The sympathy of humane people is with the Indians, but sympathy will not save them. We may protest that in the territory still left for him he ought to be allowed to live in peace; but it is not possible. Scattered through the country, as individuals or in small communities, there is room for all the Indians remaining in the west, but no considerations of abstract right will long retain, for separate and independent tribes, the ownership of tracts of country desired by the stronger race that is steadily advancing against them.

This is the hard fact that makes futile all speculations as to the cause of the present trouble or where the blame should rest. We may assume that the Indians were not the aggressors, and still the fact remains that they are threatening the lives and property of the citizens of Wyoming and for that there is but the one old remedy, the carbines of the cavalry.

After the Bannocks and Shoshones have been reduced to subjection, they will probably be compelled to move on again and we shall have peace for a little while longer. But history will go on repeating itself to the end.

All doubts as to the possibility of constructing electric locomotive engines of size sufficient to haul any train have been set at rest by the one now in use in the railway tunnel at Baltimore. It weighs 96 tons. Few steam locomotives have been made that were heavier than this. Other things being equal, a locomotive's hauling strength depends on its weight. Eight driving wheels are required to propel the Baltimore giant. It is 14 feet high and 35 feet long. It is one of the most powerful locomotives of any kind ever constructed.

When you indorse for a man or lend him money or invest in a risky speculation, think first whether you can afford to lose the money out and out. If you conclude you can, then go ahead.

AN INSANE MOTHER

Makes a Desperate Attempt to Murder Her Children.

TACOMA, Wash., July 26.—Mrs. Elizabeth Wildgrub made a desperate attempt last night, at Lake Bay, to murder her two daughters, aged seven and ten years respectively. While the children were sleeping the mother went to their bedside and attacked them with a hatchet, cutting and hacking them with the strength born of insanity. The children struggled for their lives and succeeded in escaping out of doors. With gashes in their heads, arms and bodies, with blood flowing from the wounds, and with nothing but their night clothes to cover them, they sought refuge at the house of a neighbor a mile away. Mrs. Wildgrub will probably be sent to an asylum, as it has been known for some time that she was insane.

NATIONAL CONVENTIONS.

Republicans Want to Wait Till the Democrats Have Held Theirs.

AUGUSTA, Me., July 26.—In an interview Hon. Jos. H. Manley, discussing a report that the republican national committee would meet in Washington early in November to decide the time and place of the next republican national convention, said that he had heard nothing of the plan. Mr. Manley said he should prefer to hold the convention on the Pacific coast. A trip across the continent would be educative. He expressed himself in favor of holding the convention after the democratic convention had been held. "The democratic party is now in power and it should be the first to announce its platform and candidates.

THIRTY-TWO KILLED!

As a Result of an Explosion in Wesphalia.

BOCHUM, Wesphalia, July 26—An explosion occurred yesterday in the Prince Von Cursen mine, in this vicinity. The bodies of thirty-two victims of the accident have already been recovered and a number of persons are still missing. The search parties are experiencing much difficulty in exploring the mine. In addition to the killed, nine men were severely burned by the explosion. The most distressing scenes are witnessed in the pit.

Criminal to Hang.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 26.—William Fredericks, who murdered Cashier William A. Herrick in an attempt to rob the San Francisco Savings Union bank in March, 1894, will be hanged at San Quinten today. Fredericks is one of the most famous desperadoes in California. As an associate of Evans and Sontag, the train robbers, he took part in some of the sensational crimes that were committed in the state.

Insurgents Routed.

HAVANA, July 26.—Lieut. Col. Teajda, of the geurrila forces, has routed the insurgents near San Luis, in the province of Santiago de Cuba. The insurgents left fourteen dead on the field and retired with their wounded. The troops lost four killed, had nine wounded and captured arms and ammunition.

BALLARD'S BAND

Are the Indians Who Are Always Ready for a Fight

And They Have Started Toward the Seat of Trouble—Situation in Northwestern Wyoming.

POCOTELLA, Idaho, July 26—The situation in northwestern Wyoming, where the Indians are on the war path, has not improved. In fact, all the advices that have reached the reservation are of a directly opposite nature. Adjutant General Stitzer, of Wyoming, at Market Lake, has been hourly expecting to hear that a conflict had occurred between the settlers and the Indians in the Jackson Hole valley. Two of his messengers dispatched in that district several days ago, have not returned, although overdue. Grave fears are entertained that they have been ambushed by the Indians. From the other direction the news is of an equally disquieting nature.

Indian police who have returned from the Salt River valley, where the big trading pow wow has been in progress for a week, say that the band of Bannock Indians, under the leadership of Jim Ballard, has started north toward the seat of trouble. If these Indians reach the belligerents in the Fall River valley before the troops get there, and they undoubtedly will, the result may be disastrous. Ballard's band is composed of the worst element of the Bannocks, a tribe that in the general run is bad enough, for they are as a rule lazy, shiftless, fighting Indians. This particular lot, however, are the restless spirits of the tribe, always ready for a quarrel, even in times of peace, and in the present excitement it would require much less leaven than these fifty turbulent braves to stir to an intense pitch the already excited gathering at Fall River. The authorities at the Bannock agency have all along been congratulating themselves that Ballard and his gang were not at the seat of trouble.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Indian Agent Teter, of the Fort Hall, Idaho, Indian reservation, today wired Commissioner Browning that the policemen, who were sent to the Indians, ordering them, with the commissioner's message, to return to their reservation, report that the Indians positively refuse to return. The agent has asked permission to leave the reservation to accompany the United States troops to the scene of the disturbance. Authority for him to do so has been granted.

HIS FEE 4 CENTS.

O'Brien Received That Amount For Twenty-eight Years of Service.

Perhaps one of the smallest checks ever issued by the United States government and one of the smallest fees ever received by any attorney was received by Daniel J. O'Brien of Albany, who received a check from the United States navy office, drawn on the assistant United States treasurer at New York, for the sum of 4 cents. This check has a story attached to it. During the war of the rebellion Mr. O'Brien was an officer on a cruiser of the northern navy, on which Richard W. Allen, also of Albany, was a landsman.

At the close of the war the government distributed among the seamen of the navy the prize money made by selling vessels captured during the war. In the distribution Allen, who, with O'Brien, left the navy at the end of the war, was omitted. O'Brien, acting as Allen's attorney, sent in a claim for prize money to the navy department in 1867, and since then, through the succeeding 28 years, he pressed Allen's claim at intervals. To each demand sent in the navy department responded that the matter was under consideration.

The other day the postmaster handed Mr. O'Brien a letter from the navy department. Mr. O'Brien opened it, and there lay the check he had been expecting for 28 years. He glanced hastily at the figures on the precious slip of paper and thought they read "$400." He glanced at the letter accompanying it and read that the amount was "4 cents" for attorney's fees. Mr. O'Brien sought out his client, Allen, and found him gazing at a check for 35 cents, his prize money, which he had received a few days before and had framed and hung over his chimney.—Albany Argus.

She Was Absorbed In Her Paper.

She was a businesslike woman. There was nothing frivolous in her face, if I am any reader of countenances. She looked as if she could drive a bargain with the skill of an expert. She boarded a Main street car, walked calmly to the front corner, sat down and began to read a newspaper.

After several other persons had got on the conductor came forward to collect the fares. The woman did not look up from her paper. The conductor rang up a number of fares, and then began to look puzzled. Evidently his receipts did not correspond with the mental note he had made of the number he should collect.

"Did I get your fare?" he asked of a man sitting on the opposite side of the car. The reply was affirmative.

"And yours?" turning to his neighbor. Still an affirmative reply. The woman continued absorbed in her paper. The conductor looked hard at her several times, but evidently her sex saved her from an accusation of trying to beat the company.

The conductor shook his head sadly and returned to the rear platform. Then the woman stopped reading, and with just the ghost of a smile on her face began looking out of the window.—Buffalo Express.

Queer Things In Georgia.

Colonel Q. L. Williford of Madison has in his possession a silver quarter that has a history. It was coined in 1891, and was cut out of a mule's shoulder a few days ago by Mr. J. H. Ainslie. The mule was owned by Mr. George Waters, who got Mr. Ainslie to make the operation. He inserted his knife and found a hard substance, which he extracted with little trouble, and which he found to be the above mentioned quarter. The operation was performed in the presence of Messrs. J. H. and Walter Ainslie and George Waters and several negroes. How the quarter ever got there is indeed a mystery.—Atlanta Constitution.

A FREE SILVER COUP.

THE REPUBLICAN WHITE METALLISTS' PLANS FOR THE NEXT NATION

Cameron's Name to Be Presented For President—If Their Requests Are Refused, They Will Try to Form a Fusion Party With the Democrats.

The western silver Republicans have outlined an interesting programme to be pursued in the next national convention.

A few days since a western Republican of national prominence disclosed the programme of the silver men in all its details, and it is so audacious as to startle the political managers. The plan, he says, was agreed upon at a conference of western senators last month. The senators and other western Republican leaders who participated in the compact represent ten western silver states and profess to be able to control the delegations to the next national Republican convention from those states.

These states are Montana, Idaho, Wyoming, Washington, Oregon, Colorado, Nevada, Utah, California and South Dakota. These ten states are claimed solidly for the agreement, and North Dakota and Nebraska may yet join in the movement. It is the purpose of the western silver Republicans to meet and choose delegates to the national Republican convention in the regular form, and when the convention meets to present the name of Senator Cameron of Pennsylvania for president.

If Cameron is not acceptable to the Republicans, the convention will be asked to agree upon some other representative free silver Republican. If it refuses to act upon the suggestion, the delegates from these ten western states say they will march out of the convention in a body, carrying with them as many free silver delegates from other Republican states as they can command. They will wait upon the Democratic national convention, not as delegates, but as a commission knocking at the doors and asking for the nomination of a representative free silver Democrat—Senator Morgan of Alabama preferred.

If the Democratic convention fails to act upon the demand, the silver men will abandon both old parties. It is not the intention of the managers of this independent political movement to nominate a standard bearer for 1896 on an independent silver platform, but their efforts will be directed toward choosing electors pledged to the election of a free silver president, regardless of personal preference.

The silver men say they will seek to hold the balance of power in the next electoral college and compel one of the old parties to bring forward a free silver man in order to secure the election.

The movement outlined is at present confined to the Republican party. Democrats here express the fear that a similar insurrection may break out in their ranks, led by southern Democrats, allied in sentiment with the western Republicans on the money question. This is considered as very likely to happen should the Democrats call their national convention before the Republicans hold theirs, and for that reason there was much talk today of postponing the Democratic convention until very late in order to give the silver men an opportunity to work in the national Republican convention first.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Peculiar Brand of Lightning.

During a thunderstorm recently lightning struck the residence of Fred C. Anderson of Butte, Mon., and a ball of fire entered the roof and passed back and forth through every room of the house, going through partitions like a ball of iron, and for fully two minutes it gyrated about the house, making 11 large holes in walls and ceilings, melting picture wires and other metal in the rooms.

It finally passed out along the water pipes without setting fire to anything. There were five persons in the house at the time, but the only injury they suffered was a great fright and temporary deafness.—San Francisco Chronicle.

No Wonder.

"Temperance!" cries Sir William Harcourt. "Down with the house of lords!" says ex-Premier Rosebery. "Home rule for Ireland!" demands John Morley. "Give us everything or anything!" pray the Parnellites and the Anti-Parnellites. Small wonder that the Liberals fell.—Boston Journal.

MARIA BARBERI'S SENTENCE.

Perhaps it would be too much to say that the sentencing of the New York murderess, Maria Barberi, to death in the electric chair makes her a better "risk" for the life insurance companies, but it is a fact that very few women are ever really executed, however many of them may be sentenced.—Providence Journal.

So rare is such extreme crime among the gentler sex that the contemplation of Maria Barberi's fate brings forward forcibly, even to the unsentimental, the shocking phase of capital punishment in any form. There is an added touch of pity in her case, for, horrible as was her crime of slashing her betrayer's throat, the trial clearly revealed her painful lack of any real conception of the enormity of the deed. In view of her pitiable betrayal and moral blindness the law should have spared her from the chair of death.—Philadelphia Record.

Speaking of Maria Barberi, a correspondent of the New York World asks, "But will the state kill a passionate and wronged woman because she murdered the man who wronged her?" Would that we could answer, "No!" But the Empire State, with all of its grandeur and achievement, is only civilized in streaks. Its escutcheon is still stained with the blood of the slaughtered victims of its cruelty. So even a wronged woman may be put to death by its merciless legal machinery.—Troy Press.

A GREAT PROJECT.

To Harness the Potomac River In the Interests of Washington.

For many years there has been talk of utilizing the great water power at the Great falls of the Potomac. Recently private owners of land and water rights there have taken steps looking to a development of the vast power nature has provided, and at the same time officials of the government have been investigating the subject with a view to having the government undertake the work, the power developed to be utilized in electrically lighting Washington and for other municipal purposes.

A plan has been made, however, for making use of the Little falls in the same way, and the persons interested have advanced their project so far that it may be that the Little falls will be the first to be developed. This is a private enterprise of great proportions. It is proposed to harness the Potomac river so that abundant motive power can be supplied not only for electric lighting purposes, but for all the manufactories that may be induced to establish themselves here.

Five Tons of Giant Powder at One Blast.

Engineer Russell, in charge of the construction of the Lower Otay dam, a part of the Mount Tecarte water system, has a force at work on what will be the largest blast ever shot in southern California. Half a million tons of rock will be torn from the face of the hill below the dam and deposited in the creek bed. The rocky cliff where the explosion is to take place is 100 feet in height and will be entirely removed.

Back from the cliff about 100 feet a shaft is being sunk 80 feet in depth. In this two drills will be run 30 feet in length, at the 50 foot level and at the bottom, making a 20 foot tunnel in the side of the hill. In the ends of these drifts and in the shaft will be placed five tons of giant powder and a large quantity of Judson powder, the whole thing to be exploded at once by electricity. The workmen have reached 50 feet and are now drifting. It is expected that the big blast will be ready to be exploded Aug. 15. Enough rock will be made available to complete the dam.—San Francisco Chronicle.

The Bible General Conference.

D. L. Moody, the evangelist, has issued a call to Christian workers to attend the thirteenth Bible general conference, which will meet at Northfield, Mass., from Aug. 3 to 15 next. Among the speakers expected are the Rev. Prebendery H. W. Webb-Peploe, one of the preachers at St. Paul's cathedral, London; the Rev. R. A. Torrey, superintendent of Bible institute, Chicago; the Rev. H. C. Mabie, Boston; the Rev. A. T. Pierson, Major D. W. Whittle and Dr. Andrew Murray of South Africa. The music will be in charge of Ira D. Sankey and George C. Stebbins.—Philadelphia Press.

"Winnie" Davis Writes a Novel.

Varina Anne Jefferson Davis, surnamed the "Daughter of the Confederacy," has written a novel by the title of "The Veiled Doctor." The action takes place in Virginia before the war and is of a highly emotional character. Miss Davis has considerable talent as a writer of fiction, while her unique position lends an added interest to her work.

The Telephone In Sweden.

Sweden's state telephone is soon to be connected with the state telegraph. Instead of addresses the telephone numbers will be used, the telegraph clerks looking up the address. Messages may be telephoned to the telegraph office and telephoned back, thus dispensing with the greater number of the messenger boys, as in Sweden nearly every one uses the telephone.

LAST EFFORT OF CHIVALRY.

General Fitz-Hugh Lee Thinks Pickett's Charge Will Never Be Duplicated.

After a critical examination of the improvements made in war since his practical experience of it General Fitz-Hugh Lee concludes that such a charge as that of Pickett and his men at Gettysburg would now be impossible.

During the civil war 60 rounds of ammunition were the full allowance for a day's fighting, while now an infantryman intrenched can fire 60 rounds in three minutes at a charging enemy. The modern magazine rifle, if used in connection with rapid firing cannon, General Lee thinks, would have destroyed every one of Pickett's men long before they reached the heights.

The penetration of the regulation Krag-Jorgensen rifle is six times that of the Springfield or Winchester, and it will discharge 40 shots in 68 seconds with a range of 3,000 yards.

Such has been the improvement in field guns that General Lee believes the present improved breechloading gun can be captured by infantry only by strategy or after its ammunition has been exhausted. When such pieces are re-enforced by Maxim and Gatling guns, firing from 650 to 1,800 shots a minute, it becomes practically impossible to storm any well established position.

General Lee's conclusions seem well founded, and if they are the magnificent charge of Pickett's men was the last effort of chivalry in warfare in North America. When such chivalry gives place to science; when it is no longer a question of picturesque displays of personal courage; when all the heroic individualism of the old barbaric methods of making war disappears and nothing is left except the scientific extermination of the enemy, war will cease to be a glorious business in the minds of the young, and it may no longer be true that every generation must have its war.—New York World.

Beyond Doubt.

Among the many good things told some years ago of Colonel Utley, well known as a Wisconsin editor and also as the hero of more than one military story, is a little incident which illustrates his ability to make a good natured joke.

During the war, while Colonel Utley was in command of a Wisconsin regiment stationed in Kentucky, he attained some notoriety by allowing his men to harbor and protect a poor negro boy who had escaped from his master. The boy came north, and the master brought suit for his value against Colonel Utley.

One day the colonel went from his home to Milwaukee, and while there he met a friend who asked him how his case was progressing.

"Very well," replied the colonel. "I think I shall win it, although I have the smartest lawyer at the Milwaukee bar against me."

"Why, he isn't our smartest lawyer by any means," said the friend, with evident surprise.

"Oh, certainly he is," responded the colonel, with conviction.

"How do you know?" persisted his friend.

"Know! Why, man alive, he acknowledged it himself!"—Youth's Companion.

Waiting For It to Come Along.

A young man stood on Market street at 1:30 o'clock this morning with his back against the rail that guarded a plate glass window and his arms hooked over it. The policeman on the beat stopped long enough to observe that he was very drunk.

"What you doing here?" he asked.

"Waitin fer car; zen'm goin home."

"All right; that's the best place for you." And the officer passed on.

Two hours later he found the same young man wabbling about in the same place and in the same position.

"I thought you were going home," he said.

"Zat's whattam," replied the inebriate cheerily. "Ben waitin fer zat M'Al-l'ster street car fer nour," and he waved an arm in the direction of the yellow front restaurant across the street, with yellow lights in the window, "an'll wait till it comes 'fi have to wait all night."—San Francisco Post.

Lyon Medicine Co., Indianapolis, Ind.:

GENTS—I think it my duty to send this statement to you of the benefit I have received from LYON'S SEVEN WONDERS. I have been afflicted for twenty years with stomach trouble of the severest nature. Would have seasons of the severest suffering from one to two months at a time. Between these times of suffering was never longer than three months. There was never any time that I was entirely free from misery more or less. These spells of great suffering would sometimes come on with sickness and vomiting, and other times would come on in form of rheumatism, but would finally center itself in my stomach. I have doctored with a great many physicians, but none of them could tell me what the trouble was. I was unable to get relief until I got LYON'S SEVEN WONDERS. It is now sixty days since I began taking this medicine, and am now for the first time in twenty years free from pain and misery. I am compelled to say it is a blessing to a poor man.

RAILROAD TAXATION.

Railroad Companies Favor a Gross Earnings Basis.

Boys Stone a Train—New Rule for Trainmen—Shop and Office Gossip—General News.

Bob Douglass, of the Wabash ticket office, is putting in the time between ticket sales in answering inquiries about the cheap excursion to Toledo next Sunday. Family groups are going to be numerous on that excursion. If all those who have applied for information concerning the excursion go, it will be one of the largest parties out of this city this season. The company has arranged to have plenty of coaches for the occasion and all who go on the excursion will have comfortable seats.

RAILROAD TAXATION.

As a result of interrogatories propounded by the state tax commissioners to representatives of railways as to the most equitable way of fixing value on railroad property for taxation, the board finds that 70 per cent. of the railroads favor taxation on the basis of gross earnings. The roads opposing are those expending a large per cent. of gross earnings for operating expenses. This examination also developed that the Chicago and Grand Trunk expended 90 cents to earn $1, the Chicago and Erie 86; the Michigan Central, 72; the Baltimore and Ohio and Chicago, 71; while other roads, notably the Lake Erie and Western, ran as low as 60. The commissioners are now directing an inquiry why operating expenses are greater on some roads than others.

STONED A TRAIN.

Yesterday afternoon as Pittsburg passenger train No. 9 was pulling out of the city at Chicago street, a big stone was hurled through the window, narrowly missing a passenger. Superintendent Law was on the train and ordered it stopped at the first telegraph station and sent word to this city. Detective Stoll found that a young man had thrown the stone, but as there was an absence of evil intent, there has been no arrest as yet.

BONDS FORFEITED.

Judge Baker, of Chicago, called up the cases against Supt. C. D. Law, Engineer H. W. Rouscop and Fireman Peter Schwartz, Wednesday last, and the parties not being present, their bonds of $6 000 each were declared forfeited. The action of Judge Baker was unexpected, as the defendants had not been notified when the cases would come up. It is understood that the matter will be straightened out Monday, when the defendants will appear for trial and their bondsmen released. The three men are held responsible for the disaster at Forty-seventh street, December 28, 1892, when a Pennsylvania train ran into a street car and killed four persons.

NICKEL PLATE EMPLOYE INJURED.

Patrick Ferron, foreman of the fence crew on the eastern division of the Nickel Plate, was badly injured a few days ago. He was on his "speeder," and when two miles west of Kingsville, was struck by a west bound passenger train. He was picked up and taken to the Nickel Plate depot, where two doctors dressed his wounds and sewed up four long cuts in his head. One of the cuts was on the forehead and this it was thought possibly caused a slight fracture of the skull. When struck, Ferron was riding with his back to the approaching train.

The Pennsylvania has a new rule which prohibits news agents selling anything except newspapers and periodicals on its Sunday trains.

Frank Driebert, a carpenter, who has been engaged in house building for some years, took a position in the factory of Rhinesmith & Simonson this morning.

Some trouble occurred on the eastern division of the Pittsburg road yesterday, causing a delay of two hours and a quarter to No. 7 and one hour and twenty minutes to No. 9.

Passenger Conductor Elwood Estry, of the Pittsburg, was reported better this morning. His physician says that he expects to have his patient able to resume his duties in a few days.

The Toledo, Ann Arbor, and North Michigan has set aside $1,000,000 for improvements in cutting down grades, straightening curves and the construction of two short cut off lines.

General Passenger Agent Daly, of the Lake Erie and Western, thinks the Niagara Falls excursion of their lines will this year exceed in numbers that of last year, when eight sections of ten cars each were run.

H. J. Remmert, foreman of one of the departments at the Murray works, will soon occupy one of the most handsome houses on West Washington street. The building is now receiving the finishing touches.

Banners to be carried in the procession of the electric light employes tomorrow are being constructed today. The boys will meet down town, and, headed by the City band, march to the depot, where the special train will be waiting to convey them to Rome City.

August 5, the date set for the League of American Wheelmen's meet in this city, the Wabash company will sell round trip tickets from Defiance and Peru, and all intermediate points, to this city at a one fare rate. The company makes this rate at the special request of the wheelmen who have the management of the races.

All roads are making more improvements, or preparing to do so, despite their protests that they have kept the roads in the best physical condition. Railway managers have asserted all along that they did not need any more steel rails and had bought all they required before the advance of $2 to $3 per ton; still, orders are being placed at the rate of from 10,000 to 20,000 tons per day at full market price.

George H. Judy, ex-foreman of the Pittsburg blacksmith shop, arrived in the city this morning and is busy packing up his household goods for shipment to Dayton. Mr. Judy found time this morning to call at the shop and shake hands with his old friends. He has been very fortunate in securing desirable quarters for his family in Dayton and thinks that Mrs. Judy will like that city and its people very much.

Niagara Falls is to be pushed to the front as an advertising card for the railways which reach that resort. The New York Central, the West Shore, Lehigh Valley and New York, Ontario and Western have entered into an agreement to permit a ten-day stopover privilege to the holders of limited tickets issued by or via the Wabash road to Syracuse or points east or north thereof, located along the lines party to the agreement.

Stock of the Lake Shore on Tuesday moved up to $154 per share, much the highest point in the history of the road. The confident feeling in regard to this property has apparently no other foundation than the belief that this company, like all railroads of the country, is on the verge of a more prosperous season than has been enjoyed in several years past, and the intention of the railway presidents and officials generally to maintain rates on a paying basis, which would handsomely increase earnings.

The supplement to the book of rules on the Pennsylvania lines east and west of Pittsburg went into effect on Sunday. There are a number of changes, and quite a number of new rules. Rule 10, as it now reads, is as follows: "Employes must wear the prescribed badges or uniform while on duty, and are required to be neat in appearance, polite and obliging. Smoking on passenger trains or while on duty at stations, or in or about the shops, is prohibited. The use of intoxicating drinks while on duty is strictly prohibited, and their habitual use is sufficient cause for dismissal."

Fort Wayne Kickers.

The Indianapolis Sun says: "The Allen county soldiers are known, at the state encampment, as the prize kickers. This is but a natural display of the prevalent political spirit of Fort Wayne and vicinity. There never was a thing done in the state of Indiana, socially, politically or otherwise, that did not generate a healthy kick in Allen county. Why, they even go so far up there as to send special trains to national conventions in order that the "protest of Allen county, Indiana," may not be overlooked or passed by without receiving proper recognition."

The Plymouth Democrat says: "Master Jay Reed, of Fort Wayne, is here for his annual visit with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. N. S. Woodward."

STATE NEWS.

Victor Smith, seventeen years old, in the vicinity of Brownstown, who went after a load of wood, was found dead in the roadway, with his head crushed under the front wheel of his wagon.

James Carney, a steel worker, of Muncie, has started to walk to Birmingham, Ala, on a wager, the distance to be covered by August 20. He is accompanied by a professional pedestrian.

Several valuable dogs at Muncie have been killed by an unknown poisoner. Yesterday Bandana, a bird dog valued at $200, owned by Goley Williamson, of the Delaware County bank, was given a fatal dose.

A stranger, giving his name as F. L Harvey, advertised in the South Bend papers "money to loan," etc., and every would-be borrower who presented himself was charged $5 fee. After he had collected a number of such fees Mr. Harvey disappeared.

A petition for the pardon of Charles U. Klein, of Logansport, is being circulated. He was sentenced to fourteen years' imprisonment in 1891 for the murder of John Gibbs, whom Klein struck on the head with a loaded piece of hose during a row in his (Klein's) saloon.

Lewis Kleespies, who has been fighting public sentiment in the sale of intoxicants at Fairmont for twelve months and more, has turned over his saloon to George Coleman and left the place. Recently eight indictments were returned against Kleespies, on which he gave bond in $1 500 for trial in September. His retirement is said to be permanent.

The Sunday Morning News, of Huntington, has passed to the management of a company, of which E S. Wheeler is president, and Fred T. Loftin managing editor. Ellis Searles has sold out his entire holdings in the paper and has retired. The News proposes to represent "the masses, not the classes," and to advocate free silver, or, as editorially stated, "the restoration of values through the restoration of silver"

Col. Dick Thompson, of Terre Haute, has demonstrated his versatility and youthfulness by learning to ride a bicycle, and he is now lamenting the fact that such old men as Col. Tom Nelson and President McKeen have passed the age when they can enjoy this delightful diversion. He also philosophises that wearing buttonaires and riding in street cars are poor disguises to hide the advance of years, and he wishes it possible that these two old friends might renew their youth as he has done.

Oil in California.

LOS ANGELES, Cal, July 26—One of the deepest oil wells in this city, located at the corner of Hobart and West state streets, has suddenly started "gushing" oil at such a rate that it can not be kept under control. It has overrun the neighborhood and is still flowing. The output is estimated by experts to be about 800 barrels per day. A number of owners of wells in the vicinity whose property has been yielding fair returns have decided to stop present operations and sink their shafts deeper.

SHE ARRIVED ON TIME.

Crossed a River on One Stringer and Rode Sixty Miles on Horseback.

Mrs. Minnie Hickox, who has just entered upon the discharge of her duties as teacher of the public schools of Cooke City, left Livingston to open the Cooke school on Thursday morning a week ago. Upon arriving at Cinnabar, the terminus of the railroad, she found that the stage would not leave that day on account of the washing out of the bridge across Gardiner river. The stream was so swollen that the stage driver dared not undertake to make a ford.

This was a dilemma not counted on by the plucky schoolteacher. She had given her word that she would be in Cooke on Monday, and she determined to make it good, even if she had to continue her journey on foot and swim the streams. There was no time to be lost, and so she started out.

All there was left of the Gardiner bridge was a single stringer. Nothing daunted, the lady stepped boldly on to this and walked across the raging river. It was a perilous undertaking even for a man, and a woman less brave and cool headed than Mrs. Hickox would have been very likely to have become dizzy and lost her balance. Mrs. Hickox, however, proved herself equal to the emergency, and reached the opposite bank of the roaring mountain torrent in safety.

As luck would have it, she found a family en route to Cooke encamped close by, and securing a horse mounted it and continued her journey. It was a pretty long ride for a woman who had never ridden a horse—the distance being 60 miles over a rough mountain road—but Mrs. Hickox kept on her weary way until she reached her destination. Upon arriving at Cooke she was so badly used up with her long ride that when she got off her horse she had to be assisted to the hotel. She had the satisfaction, however, that she had kept her appointment.—Anaconda Standard.

These wheels are fully guaranteed by the oldest exclusive bicycle factory in the world. You run no risk in buying a Rambler at $100.00. A. C. KATT.

PHRENOLOGY.

An Eloquent Lecture on This Most Interesting of Studies.

Phrenology at all times is an interesting study, but doubly so when handled by an adept in the art. The immense crowd that surrounded the platform of the Shaker Doctor on Calhoun street, between Douglas avenue and Brackenridge street, last evening, was held spell-bound while the doctor delivered an eloquent lecture on this subject, explaining all the strong and weak points of a man, as indicated by the cranium. In addition, a fine musical entertainment was rendered by the doctor's corps of artists. This evening, from 7:30 to 8 o'clock, the doctor will again lecture on the same subject and will have a number of persons on the rostrum for examination.

The Shaker Doctor is located at the Hotel Rich, where he can be consulted at all times, and his wonderful remedy, Shaker Herbs, can be procured.

B. O. Flower has a stirring paper in the August Arena called "The August Present." He deals in a view of hopefulness and enthusiasm with the present and the future which so many find so gloomy for civilization and finds in religion and science, the unrest in society, in the new impulse to the study of economics, and in the modern interest in the science of sociology, evidences of a greater renaissance of human thought than the Age of Pericles or the Reformation and Renaissance of the fifteenth century. A new and profound spirit of the identity of humanity is added to the intellectual activity that alone distinguished other great eras, and this is the result of modern scientific investigation into the phenomena of nature. The world can now be better, if men will only hold fast to knowledge and not let themselves retrograde through passion, greed, and prejudice and the brute instincts. It is a striking review of the forces in modern life that lead us to take hopeful views.

NICHOLSON LAW VALID.

It is so Held by Judge McCrary at Indianapolis.

The First Test Case Decided in Favor of the Temperance People—Legislature Had Constitutional Power to Pass the Act.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 26.—The first decisions ever rendered under the Nicholson temperance law were given by Judge McCray, of the criminal court, yesterday in the cases of the state against Philip Zaph, who runs a restaurant in connection with his saloon, which he refused to close on Sunday, and Sam Dinnen, who refused to cease operating a musical instrument in his saloon. The cases were intended to be made test cases under the law, and arguments were presented to show that the law is unconstitutional, in that the law is indefinite and against common right. Judge McCray rendered his decision in both cases yesterday, holding that the law comes under the general power conferred upon the legislature to make and enforce police regulations and is constitutional. It is understood that the cases will be appealed to the supreme court.

OPINION IN FULL.

The opinion of Judge McCray in full is as follows:

"Counsel for defendant assails the validity of the act of the general assembly approved March 11, 1895 (acts 1895, page 248), for many reasons, first of which reasons is that the title of the act does not embrace the subject matter as set out in sections 2 and 3 of said act—referring to licenses—that the title of the act is 'to regulate and restrict' the sale of intoxicating liquors and has no reference to the subject of 'license,' and is therefore repugnant to section 19, article 4, of the constitution of the state of Indiana, which provides that 'every act shall embrace but one subject and matters properly connected therewith; which subject shall be expressed in the title.' Counsel insists that the word 'license' should be inserted in the enacting clause, and should be embraced in the title before the subject of license can be a matter of legislation in the body of the act.

"In this view the court does not concur. The title of the act is 'An act to better regulate and restrict the sale of intoxicating liquors and the section of the constitution referred to declares that every act shall embrace but one subject and matters properly connected therewith. The question of license is certainly a matter properly connected with the regulation and restriction of the sale of intoxicating liquors, but if the section of the constitution in question did not contain the clause, 'and matters properly connected therewith,' but should read thus, 'every act shall embrace but one subject, which subject shall be expressed in the title,' then it is my opinion that the act in question would conform to and satisfy the constitutional requirement and that the act embraces but one subject, because in their relation to the liquor traffic—the subject of this legislation—the two words—restrict and license—are synonymous and interchangeable terms. Indeed, to restrict is to license, for if it were not for the law licensing the sale and restricting the right to sell to such persons only as are licensed and such only as comply with the law in obtaining a license, then every person could sell at will, but by establishing a license system the business is properly restricted to a few persons only who possess the necessary qualifications prescribed by law.

"In my judgment, the law bearing upon the subject of license as expressed in sections 2 and 3, is not repugnant to that clause of the constitution requiring the subject to be expressed in the title, when the title of the act is to regulate and restrict the sale of intoxicating liquors. It is also contended by the defendant that the proviso in section 2 has no application to a license held under the law of 1895. The liquor traffic is always a matter of legislative control and where a license is granted it is in the nature of a permit, and on the following day may be subject to a modification by the legislature. The legislature cannot remove it from police regulation. The traffic in intoxicating liquors is fraught with danger to society and the right of the state, after a license has once been granted, to impose additional restrictions upon the grantee during the continuance of such license is inherent in the state and cannot be parted with and all licenses are accepted and received by the applicants with this burden upon them, so, if the defendant in question is operating under a license issued prior to the enactment of the law of 1895 and the provisions in the law of 1895, imposing additional restrictions, having application in expressed terms to all persons holding license brings the defendant, under his old license, clearly within the pale of the new law and subjects him to all its provisions.

"It is insisted that as the defendant's license does not expire for some period of time in the future that, therefore, if he desires to carry on some other business that he cannot comply with the provision of section 2, requiring him to set out in his application for a license the kind of business which he intends or expects to carry on in connection with his saloon, as his license has not yet expired and he could not obtain a new license until his present license expires. Upon this point the court is of the opinion that it is not pertinent to this case; that the charge in this indictment is, that he kept and operated a certain musical instrument, commonly called a music box. It will be observed that the question of defendant's making music and keeping musical instruments is in the body of section 2 and not in the proviso and therefore absolutely prohibited and as the court considers it, it was the intention of the legislature to prevent musical instruments from being kept in saloons and also to prohibit music from being given in such places as one of the restrictions upon the business, and that the position of the defendant that he is unable to petition the board for the privilege of keeping such instruments is not tenable, because if his petition was duly filed and presented to the board of commissioners it would have no authority to grant him the right to music, as the same is prohibited by section 2. It is therefore unnecessary to negative the proposition in the indictment that he kept such instruments without first having obtained a license to do so.

"Counsel also contends that as the law defines the kind of a room in which lawful sales are to be made and that as musical instruments and music are prohibited therein that if he kept a room with such instruments or music then he would be liable for unlawful selling, and should be indicted for making unlawful sales because he is selling in an unlawful room or place. The court does not concur in this view for the reason that the keeping of the instruments or the music is in no way under the law connected with the selling and that the defendant keeping such instruments or making such music might be liable under the law prohibiting the same, even though he never made a sale at all, and it would not be necessary for the state to make a case of selling in order to enforce the statute prohibiting the custody and use of musical instruments in his place of business.

"It is insisted that Section 2 of the statute is repugnant to the constitution because it invades the right of a citizen to conduct a business that is not a subject of police regulation when carried on in connection with a saloon. It is contended that every man may carry on the business of keeping grocery, or, indeed, any kind of merchandise without being a subject of police regulation and that the law will not prohibit a man from keeping his store containing such merchandise open at all hours, both day and night, and to deny the saloon keeper who has such legitimate business the same right as his rival to thus keep his legitimate business open at all hours is a law conferring special privileges upon his rival and denying him that equal protection of the law, which the constitution guarantees. This has been argued with much force, but the court cannot concur in the view thus expressed by defendant's counsel. The whole subject of this legislation is the liquor traffic and not such other business as the defendant may see fit to carry on therewith; indeed, the sale of liquors, so far as this law is concerned, is the principal business and such other business is a mere incident to such business of selling liquors and all legislation bearing upon the principal business must likewise operate upon the incident. It makes no difference which is the greater—the sale of liquors or such other business connected therewith—the object of this legislation is to deal with the traffic in liquors and to restrict it within such limits as to keep it constantly within the power of police regulation that it may be the least harmful to society, and to hold that the exercise of this important function of government may be thwarted by attaching thereto some other business, not subject to police regulation, and thereby draw the traffic of intoxicating liquors from under police control would be to divest the state of one of its chief attributes of government to which this court cannot assent.

STORMS IN IOWA.

Heaviest Rainfall Since the Year 1881.

Corn Fields Ruined, Bridges and Fences Washed Out and Other Losses Caused.

MARSHALLTOWN, Iowa, July 26.—The heaviest rain and hail storm since 1881 visited this section last night. Two and a quarter inches of rain and considerable hail fell here. The storm was much more severe both north and south. The strip of country in the northwestern part of the county was badly damaged by hail and washouts. A number of corn fields were ruined and bridges and fences washed out. The corn fields in the southeast part of the county were also badly damaged by hail which were as large as walnuts in some localities. All the glass in many of the buildings was shattered.

BEAM HANGED

For the Murder of His Married Stepdaughter.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Joseph A. Beam was hanged at the United States jail here at 11 o'clock this morning for the murder of his stepdaughter, Mrs. Annie Leavy, last December. Beam had confessed his guilt and expressed repentance. Beam and his wife had separated and when he called to see her December 22, 1894, his stepdaughter ordered him away. He shot her dead and then surrendered himself.

Dr. George Slater has two patients at the free dispensary taking treatment for the liquor habit.

BLOODY MURDER.

A Horrible Crime Committed Near Minneapolis.

Pretty Maggie Craigie Has the Top of Her Head Blown Off With a Shotgun.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 26.—A strange and bloody murder was committed last night on the farm of Ernest Lange, seventeen miles west of this city. The body of little Maggie Craigie, the fourteen-year-old daughter of Captain Charles Craigie, of the Minneapolis fire department, was found with the top of the head blown off by a charge from a shot gun. Futile efforts had been made to remove the traces of blood in the up stairs room where the murder was committed and along the stairs where the body had been dragged down. Lange's shotgun was found with one recently fired shell in it. Mrs. Lange claimed to have been away from the house at the time and later her eight year old son, Freddie, confessed that he had killed the girl by accident.

SENSATIONAL SUIT.

Adlaide Colgate Seeks Separation From Her Husband.

He Leaves Her and Takes Up His Abode With a Woman Named Bassett.

TRENTON, N. J., July 26.—Mrs. Adlaide Colgate today began proceedings for divorce from her husband, Melancthon S. Colgate, a member of the New York bank and brokerage firm of Kessler, Colgate & Co. Mrs. Colgate lives at Bloomfield, N. J. In her petition Mrs. Colgate alleges that for the past year her husband has been away from home much of the time, but for the past six months he has been living in New York at No. 9 Christopher street, with a woman named Delia Bassett, as man and wife, being known as Mr. and Mrs. Bassett. Mrs. Colgate wants a divorce and an allowance for the support of herself and her five-year-old child, and the custody of the latter. The firm of which Mr. Colgate is a member dissolved yesterday because, it is alleged, of the threatened divorce proceedings.

AN UNUSUAL INCIDENT.

A Man Requests That His Funeral Sermon Precede His Death.

ATLANTA, Ind., July 26.—J. H. Robbins, of Millersburg, died before the funeral escort had returned from the burial of his own wife, who died the day before. Mr. Robbins had repeatedly expressed his determination to die as soon as his wife should have passed away, and he requested that his funeral should be preached at the same time with that of his wife. His wishes were gratified, and the unusual incident of a man listening to his own funeral discourse was witnessed by those present. The double funeral sermon was delivered by the Rev. S. H. Stokes, of the Atlanta M. E. church. Mr. and Mrs. Robbins' remains were laid beside those of their only daughter, who died five years ago, and they leave no descendants. Their little house, built principally by Mr. Robbins, who had a broken back, and who had not walked for thirty years, is something of a curiosity.

CHAUNCEY DEPEW

Is Interviewed at London by the Westminster Gazette.

LONDON, July 25.—The Westminster Gazette today publishes a long interview with Chauncey Depew, who according to the Westminster Gazette, is considerably talked of as the next republican candidate for the presidency of the United States. In this interview Mr. Depew discusses at length the British elections, the American opinion of home rule and the Monroe doctrine, taking the same ground on all three subjects as he did in the interview with the Associated Press representative when he landed at Southampton on the steamship Paris on July 18. Regarding bimetallism, Mr. Depew is quoted as saying that he believes the majority of the Marquis of Salisbury's cabinet is in sympathy on this subject with the views of Rt. Hon. A. J. Balfour, the first lord of the treasury.

The double murder was committed by Sam Lewis, a bartender. Lewis escaped, but a posse is in pursuit. There is talk of lynching if he is captured.

AMERICAN FRUIT

Finds a Very Poor Market in London.

Fine Plums, Pears and Peaches Knocked Down to the Lowest Bidder.

LONDON, July 26.—Sixteen hundred cases of California fruit, which arrived at Southampton from New York by the steamship St. Louis at 8:15 yesterday morning, were sold at Covent Garden today, fetching prices which were one-half below those of last week's. The plums averaged 7s. 6d. per case, the peaches, 8s., and the pears, 11s. 7d. There was a large crowd of buyers present in the market. The auctioneer first sold thirty-one cases of plums packed by the Joe Anderson Fruit company, of San Jose, and he was obliged to use a great deal of labor to sell them at 7s. 6d. a case. He explained to the crowd that the last lot of fruit came over in the refrigerator compartments of the steamship, and as a consequence they turned dark when exposed to the air. The present goods, he assured the prospective buyers, were in better shape. The second lot of plums, shipped by Stoper, of San Jose, sold at 8s. 9d. per case. The Crawford peaches, packed by the National Fruit company, of Riverside, sold recently at 8s. 9d. Here the sale languished, but Mr. White, the auctioneer, urged the crowd to buy, saying that the last lot of fruit was picked too soon, and that the present lot was of a better size. Under this stimulus, Mr. White sold ten cases of pears packed by Sol. Runyon, of Courtland, which fetched 9s per case. Then he auctioned off an extra lot of pears picked by H. Mayers, of Riverside. They brought 13s per case. The buyer informed a reporter of the Associated press that the fruit was of a better quality than the last consignment. Still they did not think that more money can be made with the American fruit than fresh fruit. The best lot sold was fifty cases of pears packed by the National Fruit company, which fetched 14s per case.

PAT'S PREDICAMENT.

Janitor of the Holmes "Castle" is Between Two Fires.

Damaging Evidence Against Him is Unearthed—New Developments in the Career of the Murder Monstrosity.

CHICAGO, July 26.—Pat Quinlan, the janitor in the Holmes "Castle," is in serious danger. He carried the thirty-seven keys which opened the various doors, secret and otherwise, in the chambers of Holmes' castle. He was the factotum of Holmes. Quinlan is between two fires. If Holmes confesses, as it is expected he will, he may implicate Quinlan, and if Quinlan confesses he must apparently implicate himself.

Damaging evidence against Quinlan has accumulated more rapidly in the past twenty-four hours than that against Holmes. Detective Norton was informed that early in the career of Quinlan with Holmes the former kept at the castle a girl whose first name was Lizzie. She had a sister working in the restaurant connected with the castle. This Lizzie gave birth to a child which Holmes took care of. What became of it is unknown save to Holmes and Quinlan. The report spread about Sixty-third street that Quinlan was about to marry the girl. Suddenly his wife, who had not been living at the castle, appeared on the scene. Lizzie was hurried out of the city and it is said she is now in Omaha. An effort will be made to find her.

To Quinlin it appears were sent the orders from Philadelphia to destroy all of Holmes' papers, clothing and other articles which might aid the detectives in tracing his career. How faithfully Quinlan did this is to be seen in the little of Holmes' effects to be found in the castle.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., July 26.—Emiline Cigrande, reported a victim of Holmes, is well known here. She went to Dwight, Ill., in 1891, where she was stenographer. Later friends were informed by her that she was with the A B C Copying company, of Sixty-third street, Chicago, and was soon to marry the manager, Robert E. Phelps. This marriage, according to cards received here, took place in December, 1892. Since then Lafayette friends have had no trace of her.

HAMILTON, Ont., July 26.—Mr. McLean, one of the owners of the St. Nicholas, is almost positive that Holmes, Hatch and a woman, possibly Miss Williams, stayed at his hotel last September. He says that an elderly man, accompanied by a young woman, whom he represented to be his wife, arrived on the 27th of September and shortly afterward a man joined them, who said he was from Chicago.

After staying a few days at the hotel, the elderly man left with his wife to board in the east end, and Holmes left for Chicago. The old man left the city, but the detectives can find no trace of the young woman, and it is thought she may have been murdered here.

ST. LOUIS DEMOCRATS.

Central Committee Splits on the Question of Primaries.

ST. LOUIS, July 26.—The democratic city central committee has split on the question of primaries for the selection of delegates to the state silver convention, to be held at Pertle Springs on August 8. Ten of the twenty-eight committeemen refuse to participate in the primaries. A long declaration, signed by the ten mentioned, has been presented, protesting against the action of the democratic central committee of St. Louis in calling primaries for the selection of delegates to the Pertle Springs convention, for the reason that that convention is not called as a democratic convention, but for the sole and avowed purpose of promoting the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, consequently there will be no delegations in the ten wards represented by these dissenters, unless the free silverites place them in the field.

Seizure of Logwood Boats.

MOBILE Ala., July 26.—A newspaper from Belize, British Honduras, brings the first news of the seizure, on Bacalar Lagoon, Hondur river, the dividing line between Honduras and Yucatan, of two logwood boats and a quantity of logwood belonging to British subjects. The seizure was made by a Mexican war vessel for alleged violation of police regulations. In leaving those waters on July 15 the war vessel passed between two islands belonging to Great Britain, and therefore passed through British territorial waters. The question raised is whether this act can be justified. It will be brought to the attention of the home government.

Mexico's Indians.

SERMOSILLO, Mexico, July 26.—The Seris Indians, the cannibalistic tribe that occupies Tiburon island, are again becoming troublesome and the ranchmen along the coast in the state of Sonora, near the island, fear an attack. A party of the Indians made an attack on the ranch of Pacaunt Encinas a few days ago, but were driven off by the ranch employes. The ranchmen have appealed to the authorities for protection.

Millionaire Murderer.

ST. LOUIS, July 26.—Arthur Deustrow, the millionaire murderer, has been taken to Union for trial. "Good bye, boys," he yelled to the guards, "I'll never come back here again."

Will Fight.

NEW FEATURE

In the Strike of the Indiana Bituminous Miners

Which Is Likely to Disorganize the State Federation—The Action of Governor Matthews.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., July 26.—A new feature in the strike of the Indiana bituminous miners has developed, which is likely to disorganize the State Federation of United Mine Workers. Two of the Sullivan county locals have expected President Purcell to call out the Clinton miners and are working under a special agreement and declare a general strike throughout the state. They notified the president that in the event of his refusal they would demand his resignation, together with that of Secretary Kennedy. The president refused and there is much speculation as to what the outcome will be.

It was learned late last night that the action of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad in forcing the Clinton Lock operators to reduce the price of mining by failure to furnish cars had been reported to Governor Matthews, and that the executive had given the miners assurance that he would take official action in the matter. The Chicago and Eastern Illinois is accused of having taken the course complained of for the purpose of forcing the miners to accept the fifty-one cent scale.

MARQUETTE, Mich., July 26.—The ore trimmers of this city are sending delegations to the striking miners at Ishpeming and Negaunee to persuade them to allow the steam shovels to work and thus get out the ore now on stock pile, but so far without success. By refusing to allow ore already mined to be shipped, the strikers are simply letting that much ore from other ranges displace ore from the Marquette, and thus reducing the possible amount of employment for themselves in the future. Meanwhile, the strikers not only makes idle the miners themselves, but also the trainmen, dockmen and trimmers, who handle the ore on its way to market. The harbor here is practically deserted, save by a few vessels bringing in coal and taking out lumber.

HORSE MEAT.

Railroads Making Special Rates for Its Transportation.

PORTLAND, Ore., July 26.—A special rate on canned and pickled meat, as a result of the horse meat industry established in this city has been made to eastern points by the railroads.

The Oregon railroad, in connection with the Union Pacific system, Northern railway and the North Pacific has issued an amendment to the east bound North Pacific coast tariff for this purpose. The new tariff applies equally to all eastern points. The rate established is $1 per 100 pounds in car loads of 24,000 pounds minimum weight. A radical reduction of nearly 100 per cent. is made. The present rate on canned meats is $1.85 to Chicago and $2.10 to New York. The new rate is effective August 2.

RISE IN THE RIVER

Washes Away a Bridge Over the Arkansas River.

SYRACUSE, Kan., July 26.—The bridge across the Arkansas river here was washed away by a sudden rise in the river last night. The two shore sections were carried down by the current, leaving the middle span in tact. There were seven men on the middle span and they were threatened with drowning. They managed to build a raft, however, and were rescued after a dangerous sail down the swiftly running current. It is feared considerable damage has been done to crops on the low lands.

JAMES GORDON BENNETT

Will Soon Marry One of the Richest Women in Paris.

NEW YORK, July 26.—A dispatch from Berlin says that Paris is looking forward to the marriage of James Gordon Bennett, proprietor of the Herald, and Mrs. Annenkow with the greatest interest. Mrs. Annenkow is the divorced wife of General Annenkow, a Russian, who built the Trans-Caspian railroad. She is said to be one of the richest women in Paris.

Result of a Feud.

BROOKSVILLE, Fla., July 26.—News has just reached here of the killing Tuesday of Dan and Crockett Whidden, brothers, at a cedar camp. It is supposed that their death was the result of a feud that had been raging for years among the Whiddens, Whitehurst and Stevensons, three families, who have been inter-married, and who are well known all along the gulf coast. The men who were killed were overseeing some work in camp, and slept in rude shelters, of palmettos. The murderers crept up during the night and fired on the sleeping men, killing them instantly. The murderers escaped.

Disappointed Lover.

BINGHAMPTON, N. Y., July 26.—Five minutes after an interview with his intended bride Volney Barrott, a prominent Binghampton merchant, lay dying from a bullet wound inflicted by his own hand. Some months ago he became engaged to Miss Georgia Earl, a school teacher of this city. Recently an artist returned from Italy and called on Miss Earl and was seen driving with her. This is supposed to have roused Barrott's jealousy.

DR. HARROD HURT.

His Horse Runs Away on the New Haven Road.

Became Frightened at a Hand Car—Big Fire at Briceton—Explosion at Rome City.

While driving to New Haven this morning to see a patient, Dr. Harrod had an experience which was not at all pleasant and he was painfully injured in the bargain. Near the Wabash railroad crossing his horse became frightened at a hand car and began kicking. The animal struck Dr. Harrod on the right hand, breaking his third finger and fracturing some of the small bones in the palm of his hand. The animal acted in a particularly vicious manner and after knocking off the dash board started to run. The doctor, however, was lucky enough to get out of the vehicle by jumping. The animal ran on until it nearly reached New Haven, when it was caught by a man by the name of McIntosh. At the same time Deputy Sheriff Ryan came by on his bicycle and a few moments later McIntosh came up with the horse and buggy, neither of which had been injured. While Mr. McIntosh brought in the wheel Deputy Ryan drove Dr. Harrod to this city, where his injuries were attended to.

A SERIOUS LOSS.

This morning at Briceton, a small town east of here on the Nickel Plate, a sawmill owned by M. Dodge burned to the ground, throwing fifteen men out of employment. There was no insurance.

BROKE HER ARM.

This morning Mrs. Houck, of No. 154 DeWald street, fell and broke her arm.

BURNED OUT.

For the past week the families of Joseph Fox and David Tegtmeyer have been occupying the South Bluff cottage at Rome City. Yesterday morning a gasoline stove exploded in the kitchen and before anything could be done, half the cottage was in flames, and the occupants barely had time to escape with their lives. Neighboring cottagers rushed to their assistance and by running with pails of water at last succeeded in extinguishing the fire, after half the cottage was consumed. The explosion was caused by escaping gas which ignited when the cook attempted to light it. With the exception of a few slight burns she was otherwise uninjured. Everything of value in the house was burned and the wardrobe of the party was completely destroyed, in fact, it was necessary to procure sufficient clothing from neighbors before the trip home could be made. Joseph Fox, jr., is minus two good suits. The unfortunates returned to Fort Wayne last evening.

Mills, for many years the faithful foreman of the tool department in the Pittsburg shops. After a week's trip and a sojourn at Rome City the bridal party will take up their residence on Ross street.

He cannot remember his own name and is gradually failing. He suffered a stroke of paralysis about a year ago.

COME IN PAIRS NOW.

That's the Way Our Courts Dispose of Divorce Cases.

Two Granted and Two Applied for in the Record Today—Real Estate Transfers—Court News.

At five minutes before 9 o'clock this morning J. M. Robinson filed a petition in the superior court asking that his client, Mary Haiber, be given a divorce from her husband, Geo. W. Haiber, and five minutes after 9 o'clock Judge Dawson granted the plaintiff a divorce, gave her the custody of the children and awarded her alimony in the sum of $1,200.

The parties were married on May 17, 1881, and lived together until July 3, 1895, when they separated, because, as the plaintiff says, the defendant was guilty of cruel and inhuman treatment. The defendant was represented to have property worth $5,000.

The defendant is a farmer, residing in Jefferson township, worth $5,000, and the plaintiff asks for alimony in the sum of $1,500.

John C. McMaken yesterday filed suit against Adolph Stoltz et al., for damages amounting to $300. The case will be tried in the circuit court. The plaintiff is represented by Ninde & Sons.

MANY WOMEN SUFFER

FROM LACK OF INFORMATION.

Doctors Are Too Reserved. A Woman Should Be Dealt With Openly.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Women are often allowed by their physicians to suffer much from lack of information and anxiety.

Many medical men are vain, and it is a struggle for them to acknowledge that they do not understand a case. Women do not investigate; they have faith in their doctor, and often wreck their lives through this unfortunate confidence.

To the treatment of female diseases men work from theory; and it is not to be expected that they can treat as intelligently those complaints from which they have never suffered, as a woman can who has made the organism and diseases of her sex a life study.

Women afflicted with female diseases are wise in communicating promptly with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Their distressed condition is due to womb trouble, and their symptoms tell the story.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the one remedy that removes the cause, and restores health, courage, and happiness. The druggists sell more of it than all other female medicines. Why?

The following short letter speaks for itself. Mrs. Parker is a very young wife; only twenty-one years old. She was suffering untold misery when she wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice. See the result.

Can evidence be stronger than this?

"I deem it my duty to announce the fact to all my fellow-sufferers of all female complaints that your Vegetable Compound has entirely cured me of all the pains and suffering I was enduring when I wrote you last May. I followed your advice to the letter, and the result is wonderful."—MRS. CHAS. PARKER, Little Falls, Minn. Any druggist has it.

An Criminal Monster.

The career of H. H. Holmes, now coming to light by the telegrams given in THE SENTINEL each day concerning his crimes, is one of the most remarkable records of criminal depravity that imagination could conceive. A man of good address, educated at Ann Arbor, he seems to have deliberately entered upon a life of unscrupulous and atrocious crime. Not yet thirty years of age, he is known to be guilty of almost, if not quite, all the crimes known to humanity, from theft to deliberate murder.

His criminal career is thus given by the Kansas City Star: "His first attempt to defraud insurance companies was by the use of unindentified bodies, representing them to be the bodies of persons who were heavily insured. In two instances he secured bodies from medical colleges and had them identified as his own while he remained in hiding until his assistants had collected the amount of the policies he had previously taken out on his own life. Successful in these frauds, his next step was to take out policies on the lives of others and then murder them and collect the insurance. It is believed that he has committed at least eight murders in that way. Two girls disappeared mysteriously from Chicago two years ago and it now appears that Holmes secured about $80,000 on their lives. A family named Pietzel joined him in his schemes. A heavy insurance was taken on the life of the father of the family with the understanding that a corpse should be secured and represented to be Pietzel's. The partly burned remains of a body was duly procured and indentified as Pietzel's by Holmes and two of the children. It was indeed Pietzel, he having been murdered by Holmes. The unsuspecting mother afterwards gave over to Holmes three of her children, two girls and a boy. These were the two girls whose bodies were found horribly mutilated and buried in the cellar of a house that Holmes had occupied in Toronto. The boy has not been found. Search is now being made in Holmes' Chicago residence and office for further clues. He is under arrest at Philadelphia, where he murdered the elder Pietzel. He talks coolly of the crime and claims that he can prove an alibi. His former housekeeper tells of mysterious movements, evidently arranged to sustain an alibi, while prosecuting his villainies.

It seems incredible that a human being could commit the crimes charged to this man and from motives so meanly trivial and mercenary. It indicates a want of feeling that argues against his sanity—yet he appears perfectly sane. His wife and her parents, who seem not to have been aware of his evil doings, credit him with uniform kindness to them while carrying on these heartless butcheries. We must class him as a monstrosity or lose all faith in humanity. He seems to have been such a creature as Stevenson pictured in his story of Dr. Jekyll and Henry Hyde. The latest developments go to show that his Chicago residence was arranged with secret traps and openings for the purpose of committing murder and secreting the bodies.

The Disappearing Red Man.

The primitive inhabitants and the original owners of the territory that now constitutes this union of states, the Indians, happy in the freedom of their untutored condition, have been robbed or cheated out of the broad forests which were once theirs by right of original occupancy; their numbers reduced from millions to thousands by the destructive arts of war of the white men who came from the old world; their tribes driven by the superior skill of the invaders from the Atlantic coast, step by step and year by year, across the continent, until now the few thousands of them that are left in the territory allotted to them in the far west are the last remnants of a race which is rapidly, very rapidly, disappearing forever, and soon by the majestic rivers and in the depths of the solitary woods the feeble sons of the bow and arrow will be seen no more.

Right or wrong, such has been and such is the history of the red man. Justly or unjustly, he has been deprived of the ownership of the new world. The Saxon came. His conquering foot trod the vast domain from shore to shore. The weaker race withered from his presence. They sunk and failed. The prairies, the forests, and the hunting grounds of their ancestors are theirs no more. The cypress and the hemlock are singing their requiem. And now, because, it is said, they are violating the game laws of a western state, the nation's regular army is called out to shoot them down. Such are civilization's methods. Are they right? Have not the Indians suffered sufficiently at the hands of the white man? Must they be exterminated, be made to disappear from the earth forever, because they stand in the way of civilization's march? It seems so, and, in the logic of events, the last chapter in the history of the red men of North America will soon be written. What that history would have been had the Caucasian, with his whisky, never come among them, it is hard to tell. It is certain, however, that had the discoverers' vessels never crossed the ocean from the old world to the new the Indians today would have been as numerous in North America as the whites now are and they would have been happy in their untutored way of living.

Whenever the two races meet, the Indians will still get the worst of it; as inevitably as at every previous stage of history, and when pushed beyond endurance they will fight.

The Bannocks have been reasonably quiet since 1878, when General Miles was obliged to discipline them. They were given a reservation in Wyoming, where there was still game to hunt, and they have generally kept to themselves. But game continues to grow scarce, and white settlers, hunters and cattle rangers continue to encroach upon the hunting grounds. Whether the Indians have been off their reservation or whether the whites have been on it, it is evident that the present collision is one of those that ought not to occur, but that nevertheless do and will occur, and always with the same results.

The sympathy of humane people is with the Indians, but sympathy will not save them. We may protest that in the territory still left for him he ought to be allowed to live in peace; but it is not possible. Scattered through the country, as individuals or in small communities, there is room for all the Indians remaining in the west, but no considerations of abstract right will long retain, for separate and independent tribes, the ownership of tracts of country desired by the stronger race that is steadily advancing against them.

This is the hard fact that makes futile all speculations as to the cause of the present trouble or where the blame should rest. We may assume that the Indians were not the aggressors, and still the fact remains that they are threatening the lives and property of the citizens of Wyoming and for that there is but the one old remedy, the carbines of the cavalry.

After the Bannocks and Shoshones have been reduced to subjection, they will probably be compelled to move on again and we shall have peace for a little while longer. But history will go on repeating itself to the end.

All doubts as to the possibility of constructing electric locomotive engines of size sufficient to haul any train have been set at rest by the one now in use in the railway tunnel at Baltimore. It weighs 96 tons. Few steam locomotives have been made that were heavier than this. Other things being equal, a locomotive's hauling strength depends on its weight. Eight driving wheels are required to propel the Baltimore giant. It is 14 feet high and 35 feet long. It is one of the most powerful locomotives of any kind ever constructed.

When you indorse for a man or lend him money or invest in a risky speculation, think first whether you can afford to lose the money out and out. If you conclude you can, then go ahead.

AN INSANE MOTHER

Makes a Desperate Attempt to Murder Her Children.

TACOMA, Wash., July 26.—Mrs. Elizabeth Wildgrub made a desperate attempt last night, at Lake Bay, to murder her two daughters, aged seven and ten years respectively. While the children were sleeping the mother went to their bedside and attacked them with a hatchet, cutting and hacking them with the strength born of insanity. The children struggled for their lives and succeeded in escaping out of doors. With gashes in their heads, arms and bodies, with blood flowing from the wounds, and with nothing but their slight clothes to cover them, they sought refuge at the house of a neighbor a mile away. Mrs. Wildgrub will probably be sent to an asylum, as it has been known for some time that she was insane.

NATIONAL CONVENTIONS.

Republicans Want to Wait Till the Democrats Have Held Theirs.

AUGUSTA, Me., July 26.—In an interview Hon. Jos. H. Manley, discussing a report that the republican national committee would meet in Washington early in November to decide the time and place of the next republican national convention, said that he had heard nothing of the plan. Mr. Manley said he should prefer to hold the convention on the Pacific coast. A trip across the continent would be educative. He expressed himself in favor of holding the convention after the democratic convention had been held. "The democratic party is now in power and it should be the first to announce its platform and candidates."

THIRTY-TWO KILLED!

As a Result of an Explosion in Westphalia.

BOCHUM, Westphalia, July 26.—An explosion occurred yesterday in the Prince Von Cursen mine, in this vicinity. The bodies of thirty-two victims of the accident have already been recovered and a number of persons are still missing. The search parties are experiencing much difficulty in exploring the mine. In addition to the killed, nine men were severely burned by the explosion. The most distressing scenes are witnessed in the pit.

Criminal to Hang.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 26.—William Fredericks, who murdered Cashier William A. Herrick in an attempt to rob the San Francisco Savings Union bank in March, 1894, will be hanged at San Quinten today. Fredericks is one of the most famous desperadoes in California. As an associate of Evans and Sontag, the train robbers, he took part in some of the sensational crimes that were committed in the state.

Insurgents Routed.

HAVANA, July 26.—Lieut. Col. Tosjda, of the guerrila forces, has routed the insurgents near San Luis, in the province of Santiago de Cuba. The insurgents left fourteen dead on the field and retired with their wounded. The troops lost four killed, had nine wounded and captured arms and ammunition.

BALLARD'S BAND

Are the Indians Who Are Always Ready for a Fight

And They Have Started Toward the Seat of Trouble—Situation in Northwestern Wyoming.

POCATELLO, Idaho, July 26.—The situation in northwestern Wyoming, where the Indians are on the war path, has not improved. In fact, all the advices that have reached the reservation are of a directly opposite nature. Adjutant General Stitzer, of Wyoming, at Market Lake, has been hourly expecting to hear that a conflict had occurred between the settlers and the Indians in the Jackson Hole valley. Two of his messengers dispatched in that district several days ago, have not returned, although overdue. Grave fears are entertained that they have been ambushed by the Indians. From the other direction the news is of an equally disquieting nature.

Indian police who have returned from the Salt River valley, where the big trading pow wow has been in progress for a week, say that the band of Bannock Indians, under the leadership of Jim Ballard, has started north toward the seat of trouble. If these Indians reach the belligerents in the Fall River valley before the troops get there, and they undoubtedly will, the result may be disastrous. Ballard's band is composed of the worst element of the Bannocks, a tribe that in the general run is bad enough, for they are as a rule lazy, shiftless, fighting Indians. This particular lot, however, are the restless spirits of the tribe, always ready for a quarrel, even in times of peace, and in the present excitement it would require much less leaven than these fifty turbulent braves to stir to an intense pitch the already excited gathering at Fall River. The authorities at the Bannock agency have all along been congratulating themselves that Ballard and his gang were not at the seat of trouble.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Indian Agent Teter, of the Fort Hall, Idaho, Indian reservation, today wired Commissioner Browning that the policemen, who were sent to the Indians, ordering them, with the commissioner's message, to return to their reservation, report that the Indians positively refuse to return. The agent has asked permission to leave the reservation to accompany the United States troops to the scene of the disturbance. Authority for him to do so has been granted.

HIS FEE 4 CENTS.

O'Brien Received That Amount For Twenty-eight Years of Service.

Perhaps one of the smallest checks ever issued by the United States government and one of the smallest fees ever received by any attorney was received by Daniel J. O'Brien of Albany, who received a check from the United States navy office, drawn on the assistant United States treasurer at New York, for the sum of 4 cents. This check has a story attached to it. During the war of the rebellion Mr. O'Brien was an officer on a cruiser of the northern navy, on which Richard W. Allen, also of Albany, was a landsman.

At the close of the war the government distributed among the seamen of the navy the prize money made by selling vessels captured during the war. In the distribution Allen, who, with O'Brien, left the navy at the end of the war, was omitted. O'Brien, acting as Allen's attorney, sent in a claim for prize money to the navy department in 1867, and since then, through the succeeding 28 years, he pressed Allen's claim at intervals. To each demand sent in the navy department responded that the matter was under consideration.

The other day the postmaster handed Mr. O'Brien a letter from the navy department. Mr. O'Brien opened it, and there lay the check he had been expecting for 28 years. He glanced hastily at the figures on the precious slip of paper and thought they read "$400." He glanced at the letter accompanying it and read that the amount was "4 cents" for attorney's fees. Mr. O'Brien sought out his client, Allen, and found him gazing at a check for 35 cents, his prize money, which he had received a few days before and had framed and hung over his chimney.—Albany Argus.

She Was Absorbed In Her Paper.

She was a businesslike woman. There was nothing frivolous in her face, if I am any reader of countenances. She looked as if she could drive a bargain with the skill of an expert. She boarded a Main street car, walked calmly to the front corner, sat down and began to read a newspaper.

After several other persons had got on the conductor came forward to collect the fares. The woman did not look up from her paper. The conductor rang up a number of fares, and then began to look puzzled. Evidently his receipts did not correspond with the mental note he had made of the number he should collect.

"Did I get your fare?" he asked of a man sitting on the opposite side of the car. The reply was affirmative.

"And yours?" turning to his neighbor. Still an affirmative reply. The woman continued absorbed in her paper. The conductor looked hard at her several times, but evidently her sex saved her from an accusation of trying to beat the company.

The conductor shook his head sadly and returned to the rear platform. Then the woman stopped reading, and with just the ghost of a smile on her face began looking out of the window.—Buffalo Express.

Queer Thing In Georgia.

Colonel Q. L. Williford of Madison has in his possession a silver quarter that has a history. It was coined in 1891, and was out of a mule's shoulder a few days ago by Mr. J. H. Ainslie. The mule was owned by Mr. George Waters, who got Mr. Ainslie to make the operation. He inserted his knife and found a hard substance, which he extracted with little trouble, and which he found to be the above mentioned quarter. The operation was performed in the presence of Messrs. J. H. and Walter Ainslie and George Waters and several negroes. How the quarter ever got there is indeed a mystery.—Atlanta Constitution.

A FREE SILVER COUP.

THE REPUBLICAN WHITE METALLISTS' PLANS FOR THE NEXT NATION

Cameron's Name to Be Presented For President—If Their Requests Are Refused, They Will Try to Form a Fusion Party With the Democrats.

The western silver Republicans have outlined an interesting programme to be pursued in the next national convention.

A few days since a western Republican of national prominence disclosed the programme of the silver men in all its details, and it is so audacious as to startle the political managers. The plan, he says, was agreed upon at a conference of western senators last month. The senators and other western Republican leaders who participated in the compact represent ten western silver states and profess to be able to control the delegations to the next national Republican convention from those states.

These states are Montana, Idaho, Wyoming, Washington, Oregon, Colorado, Nevada, Utah, California and South Dakota. These ten states are claimed solidly for the agreement, and North Dakota and Nebraska may yet join in the movement. It is the purpose of the western silver Republicans to meet and choose delegates to the national Republican convention in the regular form, and when the convention meets to present the name of Senator Cameron of Pennsylvania for president.

If Cameron is not acceptable to the Republicans, the convention will be asked to agree upon some other representative free silver Republican. If it refuses to act upon this suggestion, the delegates from these ten western states say they will march out of the convention in a body, carrying with them as many free silver delegates from other Republican states as they can command. They will wait upon the Democratic national convention, not as delegates, but as a commission knocking at the doors and asking for the nomination of a representative free silver Democrat—Senator Morgan of Alabama preferred.

If the Democratic convention fails to act upon the demand, the silver men will abandon both old parties. It is not the intention of the managers of this independent political movement to nominate a standard bearer for 1896 on an independent silver platform, but their efforts will be directed toward choosing electors pledged to the election of a free silver president, regardless of personal preference.

The silver men say they will seek to hold the balance of power in the next electoral college and compel one of the old parties to bring forward a free silver man in order to secure the election.

The movement outlined is at present confined to the Republican party. Democrats here express the fear that a similar insurrection may break out in their ranks, led by southern Democrats, allied in sentiment with the western Republicans on the money question. This is considered as very likely to happen should the Democrats call their national convention before the Republicans hold theirs, and for that reason there was much talk today of postponing the Democratic convention until very late in order to give the silver men an opportunity to work in the national Republican convention first.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Peculiar Freak of Lightning.

During a thunderstorm recently lightning struck the residence of Fred C. Anderson of Butte, Mon., and a ball of fire entered the roof and passed back and forth through every room of the house, going through partitions like a ball of iron, and for fully two minutes it gyrated about the house, making 11 large holes in walls and ceilings, melting picture wires and other metal in the rooms.

It finally passed out along the water pipes without setting fire to anything. There were five persons in the house at the time, but the only injury they suffered was a great fright and temporary deafness.—San Francisco Chronicle.

No Wonder.

"Temperance!" cries Sir William Harcourt. "Down with the house of lords!" says ex-Premier Rosebery. "Home rule for Ireland!" demands John Morley. "Give us everything or anything!" pray the Parnellites and the Anti-Parnellites. Small wonder that the Liberals fell.—Boston Journal.

MARIA BARBERI'S SENTENCE.

Perhaps it would be too much to say that the sentencing of the New York murderess, Maria Barberi, to death in the electric chair makes her a better "risk" for the life insurance companies, but it is a fact that very few women are ever really executed, however many of them may be sentenced.—Providence Journal.

So rare is such extreme crime among the gentler sex that the contemplation of Maria Barberi's fate brings forward forcibly, even to the unsentimental, the shocking phase of capital punishment in any form. There is an added touch of pity in her case, for, horrible as was her crime of slashing her betrayer's throat, the trial clearly revealed her painful lack of any real conception of the enormity of the deed. In view of her pitiable betrayal and moral blindness the law should have spared her from the chair of death.—Philadelphia Record.

Speaking of Maria Barberi, a correspondent of the New York World asks, "But will the state kill a passionate and wronged woman because she murdered the man who wronged her?" Would that we could answer, "No!" But the Empire State, with all of its grandeur and achievement, is only civilized in streaks. Its escutcheon is still stained with the blood of the slaughtered victims of its cruelty. So even a wronged woman may be put to death by its merciless legal machinery.—Troy Press.

A GREAT PROJECT.

To Harness the Potomac River In the Interests of Washington.

For many years there has been talk of utilizing the great water power at the Great falls of the Potomac. Recently private owners of land and water rights there have taken steps looking to a development of the vast power nature has provided, and at the same time officials of the government have been investigating the subject with a view to having the government undertake the work, the power developed to be utilized in electrically lighting Washington and for other municipal purposes.

A plan has been made, however, for making use of the Little falls in the same way, and the parties interested have advanced their project so far that it may be that the Little falls will be the first to be developed. This is a private enterprise of great proportions. It is proposed to harness the Potomac river so that abundant motive power can be supplied not only for electric lighting purposes, but for all the manufactories that may be induced to establish themselves here.

Five Tons of Giant Powder at One Blast.

Engineer Russell, in charge of the construction of the Lower Otay dam, a part of the Mount Tecarte water system, has a force at work on what will be the largest blast ever shot in southern California. Half a million tons of rock will be torn from the face of the hill below the dam and deposited in the creek bed. The rocky cliff where the explosion is to take place is 100 feet in height and will be entirely removed.

Back from the cliff about 100 feet a shaft is being sunk 80 feet in depth. In this two drills will be run 30 feet in length, at the 50 foot level and at the bottom, making a 70 foot tunnel in the side of the hill. In the ends of these drifts and in the shaft will be placed five tons of giant powder and a large quantity of Judson powder, the whole thing to be exploded at once by electricity. The workmen have reached 50 feet and are now drifting. It is expected that the big blast will be ready to be exploded Aug. 15. Enough rock will be made available to complete the dam.—San Francisco Chronicle.

The Bible General Conference.

D. L. Moody, the evangelist, has issued a call to Christian workers to attend the thirteenth Bible general conference, which will meet at Northfield, Mass., from Aug. 3 to 15 next. Among the speakers expected are the Rev. Prebendary H. W. Webb-Peploe, one of the preachers at St. Paul's cathedral, London; the Rev. R. A. Torrey, superintendent of Bible institute, Chicago; the Rev. H. C. Mabie, Boston; the Rev. A. T. Pierson, Major D. W. Whittle and Dr. Andrew Murray of South Africa. The music will be in charge of Ira D. Sankey and George C. Stebbins.—Philadelphia Press.

"Winnie" Davis Writes a Novel.

Varina Anne Jefferson Davis, surnamed the "Daughter of the Confederacy," has written a novel by the title of "The Veiled Doctor." The action takes place in Virginia before the war and is of a highly emotional character. Miss Davis has considerable talent as a writer of fiction, while her unique position lends an added interest to her work.

The Telephone In Sweden.

Sweden's state telephone is soon to be connected with the state telegraph. Instead of addresses the telephone numbers will be used, the telegraph clerks looking up the address. Messages may be telephoned to the telegraph office and telephoned back, thus dispensing with the greater number of the messenger boys, as in Sweden nearly every one uses the telephone.

LAST EFFORT OF CHIVALRY.

General Fitz-Hugh Lee Thinks Pickett's Charge Will Never Be Duplicated.

After a critical examination of the improvements made in war since his practical experience of it General Fitz-Hugh Lee concludes that such a charge as that of Pickett and his men at Gettysburg would now be impossible.

During the civil war 60 rounds of ammunition were the full allowance for a day's fighting, while now an infantryman intrenched can fire 60 rounds in three minutes at a charging enemy. The modern magazine rifle, if used in connection with rapid firing cannon, General Lee thinks, would have destroyed every one of Pickett's men long before they reached the heights.

The penetration of the regulation Krag-Jorgensen rifle is six times that of the Springfield or Winchester, and it will discharge 40 shots in 68 seconds with a range of 3,000 yards.

Such has been the improvement in field guns that General Lee believes the present improved breechloading gun can be captured by infantry only by strategy or after its ammunition has been exhausted. When such pieces are re-enforced by Maxim and Gatling guns, firing from 650 to 1,800 shots a minute, it becomes practically impossible to storm any well established position.

General Lee's conclusions seem well founded, and if they are the magnificent charge of Pickett's men was the last effort of chivalry in warfare in North America. When such chivalry gives place to science; when it is no longer a question of picturesque displays of personal courage; when all the heroic individualism of the old barbaric methods of making war disappears and nothing is left except the scientific extermination of the enemy, war will cease to be a glorious business in the minds of the young, and it may no longer be true that every generation must have its war.—New York World.

Beyond Doubt.

Among the many good things told some years ago of Colonel Utley, well known as a Wisconsin editor and also as the hero of more than one military story, is a little incident which illustrates his ability to make a good natured joke.

During the war, while Colonel Utley was in command of a Wisconsin regiment stationed in Kentucky, he attained some notoriety by allowing his men to harbor and protect a poor negro boy who had escaped from his master. The boy came north, and the master brought suit for his value against Colonel Utley.

One day the colonel went from his home to Milwaukee, and while there he met a friend who asked him how his case was progressing.

"Very well," replied the colonel. "I think I shall win it, although I have the smartest lawyer at the Milwaukee bar against me."

"Why, he isn't our smartest lawyer by any means," said the friend, with evident surprise.

"Oh, certainly he is," responded the colonel, with conviction.

"How do you know?" persisted his friend.

"Know! Why, man alive, he acknowledged it himself!"—Youth's Companion.

Waiting For It to Come Along.

A young man stood on Market street at 1:30 o'clock this morning with his back against the rail that guarded a plate glass window and his arms hooked over it. The policeman on the beat stopped long enough to observe that he was very drunk.

"What you doing here?" he asked.

"Waitin fer car; son'n goin home."

"All right; that's the best place for you." And the officer passed on.

Two hours later he found the same young man wobbling about in the same place and in the same position.

"I thought you were going home," he said.

"Zat's whatIam," replied the inebriate cheerily. "Bin waitin fer mi M'Allister street car fer hour," and he waved an arm in the direction of the yellow front restaurant across the street, with yellow lights in the window, "an'll wait till it comes 'f I have to wait all night."—San Francisco Post.

MORON, IND., May 10, 1894.

Lyon Medicine Co., Indianapolis, Ind.:

GENTS—I think it my duty to send this statement to you of the benefit I have received from LYON'S SEVEN WONDERS. I have been afflicted for twenty years with stomach trouble of the severest nature. Would have seasons of the severest suffering from one to two months at a time. Between these times of suffering was never longer than three months. There was never any time that I was entirely free from misery more or less. These spells of great suffering would sometimes come on with sickness and vomiting, and other times would come on in form of rheumatism, but would finally center itself in my stomach. I have doctored with a great many physicians, but none of them could tell me what the trouble was. I was unable to get relief until I got LYON'S SEVEN WONDERS. It is now sixty days since I began taking this medicine, and am now for the first time in twenty years free from pain and misery. I am compelled to say it is a blessing to a poor man.

RAILROAD TAXATION.

Railroad Companies Favor a Gross Earnings Basis.

Boys Stone a Train—New Rule for Trainmen—Shop and Office Gossip—General News.

Bob Douglass, of the Wabash ticket office, is putting in the time between ticket sales in answering inquiries about the cheap excursion to Toledo next Sunday. Family groups are going to be numerous on that excursion. If all those who have applied for information concerning the excursion go, it will be one of the largest parties out of this city this season. The company has arranged to have plenty of coaches for the occasion and all who go on the excursion will have comfortable seats.

RAILROAD TAXATION.

As a result of interrogatories propounded by the state tax commissioners to representatives of railways as to the most equitable way of fixing value on railroad property for taxation, the board finds that 70 per cent. of the railroads favor taxation on the basis of gross earnings. The roads opposing are those expending a large per cent. of gross earnings for operating expenses. This examination also developed that the Chicago and Grand Trunk expended 90 cents to earn $1; the Chicago and Erie 86; the Michigan Central, 73; the Baltimore and Ohio and Chicago, 71; while other roads, notably the Lake Erie and Western, ran as low as 60. The commissioners are now directing an inquiry why operating expenses are greater on some roads than others.

STONED A TRAIN.

Yesterday afternoon as Pittsburg passenger train No. 9 was pulling out of the city at Chicago street, a big stone was hurled through the window, narrowly missing a passenger. Superintendent Law was on the train and ordered it stopped at the first telegraph station and sent word to this city. Detective Stoll found that a young man had thrown the stone, but as there was an absence of evil intent, there has been no arrest as yet.

BONDS FORFEITED.

Judge Baker, of Chicago, called up the cases against Supt. C. D. Law, Engineer H. W. Rousdop and Fireman Peter Schwartz, Wednesday last, and the parties not being present, their bonds of $6,000 each were declared forfeited. The action of Judge Baker was unexpected, as the defendants had not been notified when the cases would come up. It is understood that the matter will be straightened out Monday, when the defendants will appear for trial and their bondsmen released. The three men are held responsible for the disaster at Forty-seventh street, December 28, 1892, when a Pennsylvania train ran into a street car and killed four persons.

NICKEL PLATE EMPLOYE INJURED.

Patrick Ferron, foreman of the fence crew on the eastern division of the Nickel Plate, was badly injured a few days ago. He was on his "speeder," and when two miles west of Kingsville, was struck by a west bound passenger train. He was picked up and taken to the Nickel Plate depot, where two doctors dressed his wounds and sewed up four long cuts in his head. One of the cuts was on the forehead and this it was thought possibly caused a slight fracture of the skull. When struck, Ferron was riding with his back to the approaching train.

D. O'Rourke is a new brakeman on the Nickel Plate.

Henry Lose, of the Pittsburg shops, is enjoying a vacation and has gone north.

A train of twenty coaches, all empty, passed over the Pittsburg yesterday, en route to Chicago.

The electric works this morning sent the machinery for an 125 light arc plant to Patterson, N. J.

Franke & Co., the contractors, have just completed a fine brick house in Lakeside for Fred Schultz.

Manager C. M. Crim, of the Standard Wheel works, has returned from a business trip to Lansing, Mich.

The Wabash pay car was here this morning and our city is about $18,000 better off than it was yesterday.

Master Mechanic Samuel Wass, of Rhinesmith & Simonson's factory, now rides a bicycle to and from his work.

Car Inspector George Schwartz, of the Pittsburg, and his family have gone to Chicago to spend a few days.

Paul Wickman, after a week's illness, was able to resume work at the Anthony Wayne factory this morning.

Engineer J. O. McClellan, of the Pittsburg, has gone into Wisconsin to spend a few days in fishing and sight-seeing.

The new issue of bonds, to the amount of $2,500,000, by the New York, New Haven and Hartford, was taken by Boston institutions.

Brakeman James House has been put on the regular list of the Nickel Plate. He is now a member of Conductor R. C. Ross' crew.

The Pennsylvania has a new rule which prohibits news agents selling anything except newspapers and periodicals on its Sunday trains.

Art Dougall resumed his place at the desk in the electric light office this morning, after a two week's sojourn at Manhattan Beach and other Atlantic resorts.

Frank Driebert, a carpenter, who has been engaged in house building for some years, took a position in the factory of Rhinesmith & Simonson this morning.

William O. Connell, who, for thirty years, had been receiving clerk of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago, died at Pittsburg on Tuesday, aged seventy-three.

Some trouble occurred on the eastern division of the Pittsburg road yesterday, causing a delay of two hours and a quarter to No. 7 and one hour and twenty minutes to No. 9.

Passenger Conductor Elwood Estry, of the Pittsburg, was reported better this morning. His physician says that he expects to have his patient able to resume his duties in a few days.

The Toledo, Ann Arbor, and North Michigan has set aside $1,000,000 for improvements in cutting down grades, straightening curves and the construction of two short cut-off lines.

The Pullman and Wagner people say that the business of their sleeping and parlor cars for June, for this month, thus far, and for August promises to be the largest in the history of the companies.

Edward Evans is lying very ill at his home, 174 West Wayne street. His friends are alarmed at the serious nature of his malady. Mr. Evans is one of the oldest railroad men in the city, though for some years he has been engaged in other business. He was the first roadmaster of the Wabash and served in that capacity for many years.

The citizens of Cleveland are pressing the managements of the roads centering there to take steps looking to the erection of a union station, such as a terminal of its importance is entitled to.

Warren Carpenter, fireman at the electric works, was fortunate enough to get the key which unlocked the cash box containing $50, which was displayed in the windows at Golden & Patterson's.

General Passenger Agent Daly, of the Lake Erie and Western, thinks the Niagara Falls excursion of their lines will this year exceed in numbers that of last year, when eight sections of ten cars each were run.

H. J. Remmert, foreman of one of the departments at the Murray works, will soon occupy one of the most handsome homes on West Washington street. The building is now receiving the finishing touches.

Banners to be carried in the procession of the electric light employes to-morrow are being constructed today. The boys will meet down town, and, headed by the City band, march to the depot, where the special train will be waiting to convey them to Rome City.

August 5, the date set for the League of American Wheelmen's meet in this city, the Wabash company will sell round trip tickets from Defiance and Peru, and all intermediate points, to this city at a one fare rate. The company makes this rate at the special request of the wheelmen who have the management of the races.

All roads are making more improvements, or preparing to do so, despite their protests that they have kept the roads in the best physical condition. Railway managers have asserted all along that they did not need any more steel rails and had bought all they required before the advance of $2 to $3 per ton; still, orders are being placed at the rate of from 10,000 to 20,000 tons per day at full market price.

George H. Judy, ex-foreman of the Pittsburg blacksmith shop, arrived in the city this morning and is busy packing up his household goods for shipment to Dayton. Mr. Judy found time this morning to call at the shop and shake hands with his old friends. He has been very fortunate in securing desirable quarters for his family in Dayton and thinks that Mrs. Judy will like that city and its people very much.

Niagara Falls is to be pushed to the front as an advertising card for the railways which reach that resort. The New York Central, the West Shore, Lehigh Valley and New York, Ontario and Western have entered into an agreement to permit a ten-day stop-over privilege to the holders of limited tickets issued by or via the Wabash road to Syracuse or points east or north thereof, located along the lines party to the agreement.

Stock of the Lake Shore on Tuesday moved up to $154 per share, much the highest point in the history of the road. The confident feeling in regard to this property has apparently no other foundation than the belief that this company, like all railroads of the country, is on the verge of a more prosperous season than has been enjoyed in several years past, and the intention of the railway presidents and officials generally to maintain rates on a paying basis, which would handsomely increase earnings.

The supplement to the book of rules on the Pennsylvania lines east and west of Pittsburg went into effect on Sunday. There are a number of changes, and quite a number of new rules. Rule 10, as it now reads, is as follows: "Employes must wear the prescribed badges or uniform while on duty, and are required to be neat in appearance, polite and obliging. Smoking on passenger trains or while on duty at stations, or in or about the shops, is prohibited. The use of intoxicating drinks while on duty is strictly prohibited, and their habitual use is sufficient cause for dismissal."

Fort Wayne Kickers.

The Indianapolis Sun says: "The Allen county soldiers are known, at the state encampment, as the prize kickers. This is but a natural display of the prevalent political spirit of Fort Wayne and vicinity. There never was a thing done in the state of Indiana, socially, politically or otherwise, that did not generate a healthy kick in Allen county. Why, they even go so far up there as to send special trains to national conventions in order that the "protest of Allen county, Indiana," may not be overlooked or passed by without receiving proper recognition."

The Plymouth Democrat says: "Master Jay Reed, of Fort Wayne, is here for his annual visit with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. N. S. Woodward."

Lewis Kleespies, who has been fighting public sentiment in the sale of intoxicants at Fairmont for twelve months and more, has turned over his saloon to George Coleman and left the place. Recently eight indictments were returned against Kleespies, on which he gave bond in $1,500 for trial in September. His retirement is said to be permanent.

The Sunday Morning News, of Huntington, has passed to the management of a company, of which E. S. Wheeler is president, and Fred T. Loftin managing editor. Col. Dick Thompson, of Terre Haute, has demonstrated his versatility and youthfulness by learning to ride a bicycle, and he is now lamenting the fact that such old men as Col. He also philosophizes that wearing boutonnieres and riding in street cars are poor disguises to hide the advance of years, and he wishes it possible that these two old friends might renew their youth as he has done.

Oil in California.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 26.—One of the deepest oil wells in this city, located at the corner of Hobart and Westlake streets, has suddenly started "gushing" oil at such a rate that it can not be kept under control. It has overrun the neighborhood and is still flowing. The output is estimated by experts to be about 800 barrels per day. A number of owners of wells in the vicinity whose property has been yielding fair returns have decided to stop present operations and sink their shafts deeper.

SHE ARRIVED ON TIME.

Crossed a River on One Stringer and Rode Sixty Miles on Horseback.

Mrs. Minnie Hickox, who has just entered upon the discharge of her duties as teacher of the public schools of Cooke City, left Livingston to open the Cooke school on Thursday morning a week ago. Upon arriving at Cinnabar, the terminus of the railroad, she found that the stage would not leave that day on account of the washing out of the bridge across Gardiner river. The stream was so swollen that the stage driver dared not undertake to make a ford.

This was a dilemma not counted on by the plucky schoolteacher. She had given her word that she would be in Cooke on Monday, and she determined to make it good, even if she had to continue her journey on foot and swim the streams. There was no time to be lost, and so she started out.

All there was left of the Gardiner bridge was a single stringer. Nothing daunted, the lady stepped boldly on to this and walked across the raging river. It was a perilous undertaking even for a man, and a woman less brave and cool headed than Mrs. Hickox would have been very likely to have become dizzy and lost her balance. Mrs. Hickox, however, proved herself equal to the emergency, and reached the opposite bank of the roaring mountain torrent in safety.

As luck would have it, she found a family en route to Cooke encamped close by, and securing a horse mounted it and continued her journey. It was a pretty long ride for a woman who had never ridden a horse—the distance being 60 miles over a rough mountain road—but Mrs. Hickox kept on her weary way until she reached her destination. Upon arriving at Cooke she was so badly used up with her long ride that when she got off her horse she had to be assisted to the hotel. She had the satisfaction, however, that she had kept her appointment.—Anaconda Standard.

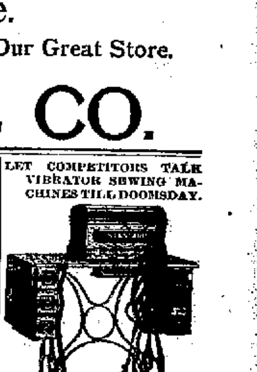
LET COMPETITORS TALK VIBRATOR SEWING MACHINES TILL DOOMSDAY.



WE'LL SIMPLY SMILE AND SAY:

"THE STANDARD ROTARY SHUTTLE - SEWING MACHINE - TALKS FOR ITSELF."

The Standard Rotary Shuttle sews 840 stitches with 60 turns less of the big wheel than the Vibrator Shuttles do.

Value and price go hand in hand with "The Standard." You'll never find the one without the other.

The value, though, is always bigger than the price.

Ladies!

There is no need of you riding a bicycle weighing more than 20 pounds. A 20-pound Rambler is stronger than a 23 pound wheel of any other make. If you will examine the construction of the Rambler you will readily understand why; if of light weight we can give you this wheel weighing but 17 pounds.

These wheels are fully guaranteed by the oldest exclusive bicycle factory in the world. You run no risk in buying a Rambler at $100.00. A. C. KATT.

Heavyweight Wedding.

Justice Martin had a rather heavy wedding ceremony to perform yesterday afternoon in which the groom weighed 300 pounds, while the bride tipped the scales at 280 pounds. The contracting couple were George Hayne, 45 years of age, and Lottie Kelly, aged 38 years.—Chicago Tribune.

PHRENOLOGY.

An Eloquent Lecture on This Most Interesting of Studies.

Phrenology at all times is an interesting study, but doubly so when handled by an adept in the art. The immense crowd that surrounded the platform of the Shaker Doctor on Calhoun street, between Douglas avenue and Brackenridge street, last evening, was held spell-bound while the doctor delivered an eloquent lecture on this subject, explaining all the strong and weak points of a man, as indicated by the cranium. In addition, a fine musical entertainment was rendered by the doctor's corps of artists. This evening, from 7:30 to 8 o'clock, the doctor will again lecture on the same subject and will have a number of persons on the rostrum for examination.

The Shaker Doctor is located at the Hotel Rich, where he can be consulted at all times, and his wonderful remedy, Shaker Herbs can be procured.

B. O. Flower has a stirring paper in the August Arena called "The August Present." He deals in a view of hopefulness and enthusiasm with the present and the future which so many find so gloomy for civilization and finds in religion and science, the unrest in society, in the new impulse to the study of economics, and in the modern interest in the science of sociology, evidences of a greater renaissance of human thought than the Age of Pericles or the Reformation and Renaissance of the fifteenth century. A new and profound spirit of the identity of humanity is added to the intellectual activity that alone distinguished other great eras, and this is the result of modern scientific investigation into the phenomena of nature. The world can now be better. If men will only hold fast to knowledge and not let themselves retrograde through passion, greed, and prejudice and the brute instincts. It is a striking review of the forces in modern life that lead us to take hopeful views.
